In a bizarre move teams play with masks

Russian and Canadian women's ice hockey teams decided to play with masks after Covid test results got delayed. After both teams took part in the pre-game warmup, the Canadians stayed in the locker room awaiting Russian results. PM: CONGRESS SOWING SEEDS OF SEPARATISM

Accuses it of adopting divide-and-rule policy

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Monday accused the Congress of attempting to sow seeds of separatism by trying to instigate people of Tamil Nadu and other states, and by propounding a misleading notion that India was not one nation but merely a union of states.

Replying to the Motion of Thanks to the President's address, Modi said India has been one nation since time immemorial in spite of different cultures. He quoted Vishnu Purana to say since ancient India, the land on the north of oceans and south of snowy Himalayas has been called Bharat. He also cited verses in Tamil by poet Subramania Bharati in support of this argument.

Modi accused the Congress of adopting the British strategy of divide and rule, saying "It had become leader of the tukde -tukde gang." Referring to Congress leader Rahul Gandhi's statement that India is not described as a nation in the Constitution but as a Union of states, Modi said, "the House was insulted when it was said that the word nation was not mentioned in the Constitution." He said the notion of a nation is not a mere arrangement to rule; "nation for us is a living soul."

Modi said that the statements and actions of the Congress show it has resigned itself to staying out of power for the next 100 years. Even after losing power in so many states, "neither has your ego gone, nor your ecosystem has allowed you to shed your arrogance."

Accusing the Congress of "indulging in blind opposition", he said "blind opposition is an insult to democracy."

Modi said India has taken giant strides towards becoming Atmanirbhar. "We are promoting domestic industry by giving push to Make in India in every sector." Startups are mushrooming and the number of unicorns is set to hit a century, These startups, he said, are creating a large number of jobs. While there were only 500 startups till 2014, but now there are 60,000 of them.

As for defence procurement, "Bulk of the purchases will now be made from Indian manufacturers, he said. But in the past no attempt was made to promote the domestic industry in the defence sector. Emphasis was laid on imports. We all know why... Make in India means no commission, no corruption. That is why they are attacking it," Modi charged.

Extend GST relief by 3 yrs: Bommai to FM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

Karnataka sought the Centre to extend GST compensation till 2024-25. Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, who met Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman in New Delhi on Monday, made the appeal, considering that the state is only now easing restrictions on businesses.

"The timeframe for the state to avail GST compensation is expected to end in March this year. But due to Covid, we've not been able to mobilise adequate resources. An extension is necessary," Bommai told Sitharaman.

Bommai said that many projects related to the state were discussed. "I met most of the MPs from Karnataka, including Sitharaman. She assured us of funds to implement the projects for Karnataka. Also, the 15th Finance Commission grants, which have been sanctioned, will be released soon," he said.

He appealed to Sitharaman for a Rs 5,030 crore grant to take up development works in North Karnataka. Under the Rs 1 lakh crore interest-free loan announced by the Centre to states, Karnataka is likely to get Rs 3,800-4,000 crore, he added.

He met Railway Minister Ashwani Vaishnaw and discussed the shortage of rakes to transport coal. Vaishnaw said he will direct officials in the Railway Board.

On his meeting with Union Health Minister Mansukh Mandaviya, Bommai said, "I sought special grants to develop health infrastructure and he agreed." He also met Power Minister RK Singh over conditions imposed on state escoms to avail loans. Bommai said some clarification is needed and he will discuss it with state officials.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

SEVEN Indian Army personnel are missing after they were struck by an avalanche in Arunachal Pradesh on Sunday.

The soldiers were part of a patrol team and were hit by the snowslide in the high-altitude area of Kameng sector, a defence spokesperson said on Monday. The avalanche-struck area is 20 km north-east of Bumla in Tawang district near the China border.

Search and rescue operations are currently underway, said the defence spokesperson adding that specialised teams have been airlifted to the area, which has been witnessing inclement weather with heavy snowfall for the past few days.

"Praying for the safety of Army personnel hit by the avalanche in Arunachal and hope that they be rescued safely as early as possible. Indian Army has always stood by us whenever in difficulties. We earnestly pray that no harm comes to our brave Jawans," tweeted Arunachal Pradesh Chief Minister Pema Khandu.

AS HIJAB ROW SPREADS ACROSS STATE, CM MEETS AMIT SHAH

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

AS the hijab row raged across the state, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, who is in New Delhi, met Union Home Minister on Monday evening. Sources said that during the meeting that lasted about 15 minutes, the hijab row and much-talked-about ministry expansion may have also come up for discussion.

Bommai requested people of the state to maintain harmony and appealed to them to wait for directions from the Karnataka High Court, which is hearing a petition on the issue on Tuesday. The petition has been filed by a student of the Government Pre-University Women's College in Udupi, questioning the ban on headscarves inside classrooms.

Bommai said that students from schools and pre-university colleges should wear uniforms as specified under the Karnataka Education Act. The government invoked the Act on Saturday, saying the education department and managements of private institutions will prescribe uniforms.

The controversy over banning hijabs, which started at the Government Pre-University Women's College in Udupi, has now spread to Bengaluru, Hassan, Chikkamagaluru, Belagavi, Kolar, Shivamogga and Mysuru with students protesting for and against the ban.

Adding to the controversy, a Government PU college in Kundapur allowed students wearing hijab on the campus, but made them sit in a separate classroom. P4

27 MINUTES OF INFECTION PROTECTION OR 25 HOURS? DEPENDS ON THE MASK YOU DECIDE TO WEAR.

Just like the virus, masks have variants too. One of the most powerful mask variants is the scientifically designed N95 mask, or its comparable BIS certified FFP2 mask.

If we all wear these masks, we can stay protected from viruses (including the fast spreading variant) for up to 25 hours*, even in the presence of an infected person. With cloth masks, this duration drops to a mere 27 minutes#.

FFP2 masks have electrostatically charged layers that ordinary masks do not have. It's no wonder that it is recommended to use FFP2 or N95 masks.

While Lokayukta takes serious view of collapse of Ejipura quarters, HC pulls them up for playing with lives of public by not filling up potholes

BBMP ENGINEERS PUT ON MAT FOR SHODDY WORKS

Lokayukta suggests strict action

YATHIRAJU @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka Lokayukta has submitted its report into the 2003 collapse of 13 houses in Economically Weaker Section (EWS) quarters in Ejipura due to substandard work which claimed the lives of a few residents.

The report, submitted to the Chief Secretary, has recommended that the State government initiate disciplinary action against 10 engineers of the BBMP for dereliction of duty, and for failing to monitor the work. The report has also recommended criminal proceedings against 13 contractors. The houses were constructed three-and-a-half-decades ago.

The report also recommends initiation of proceedings against the contractors to recover Rs 4.75 crore with interest for causing loss to the state's exchequer and also as compensation for the inconvenience caused to the 1,512 families.

The inquiry referred by the government under Section 7 (2-A) of the Karnataka Lokayukta Act in October 2008 was completed by Lokayukta Justice P Vishwanatha Shetty, who submitted the report to the government before demitting office on January 27 this year.

According to the report, the Lokayukta has drawn an inference that the poor quality of construction was executed not only on account of negligence, but also to make unlawful gain for themselves by minimising the expenditure on construction of quality quarters.

"An effort made for a small gain has resulted in serious consequences. Therefore, a strong and clear message is required to be sent to the concerned to prevent such untoward incidents in future," the report states.

Will send officials to jail, warns HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Monday orally warned that it may have to issue directions to register FIRs and send BBMP engineers to jail for playing with the lives of public by not filling up potholes in Bengaluru.

A division bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum issued the warning after the counsel for petitioners in a public interest litigation, which was filed in 2015, pointed out that nine people died because of potholes in the city in the last one year.

The bench told the BBMP counsel that the court will get an independent agency to conduct an inquiry and Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike has to take strict action against officers. "Either directions have to be issued to register FIRs for criminal negligence or we will have to ask the government to suspend them and put some other officers in place," the court said.

Pointing out that nothing has happened even after summoning the BBMP chief commissioner once, the court told BS Prahlad, Chief Engineer (Road and Infrastructure), BBMP, who was present in the court, "You are in the habit of sitting in airconditioned office and you do not know difficulties of the public. We want the roads in such a way that they should be in motorable condition and repair work should be durable."

Directing the engineer-in chief to be present on the next date of hearing, the court noted that the BBMP counsel fairly submitted that the automatic pothole filling machine (APFM) which was being used earlier is not in use at present, as the contract given to a private agency expired on January 3, 2022.

"The BBMP shall submit its explanation as to what arrangements were made for using the technology provided by APFM in case they were not ready to renew the contract and why they were waiting till now. They also have to explain as to why the contract with that agency cannot be renewed in case there was no complaint against their work and quality," the court said, directing BBMP to submit the plan of technology which they are going to use by adopting the machine.

Sir MV Terminal platforms already caving in

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

EVEN as the Sir M Visvesvaraya Terminal, built at a cost of Rs 314 crore, awaits the nod of the Prime Minister's Office for its launch, parts of platforms 1 and 7 have caved in recently.

When TNIE visited the spot, it found that the damage had occurred towards the end of the platforms along the Banaswadi side. The restoration work is quietly on at both these locations.

The portion on platform 1, where a subway connects it to all the platforms up to 7, was being rebuilt. "Water below the surface started bubbling and leaking out. It had loosened the granite tiles. Hence, we were forced to remove the tiles and the process of redoing them is on," a source said.

Platform 7 appeared to have suffered massively with tiles along a huge stretch being replaced. "The soil beneath the platform had caved in due to the heavy rains last year. The soil may not have been of good quality. As a result, a few tiles caved in thereby creating an uneven structure here. Hence, they are all being removed and the issue beneath the ground is being sorted out," a senior railway source said.

Parts of Platform 7 of Sir M Visvesvaraya Terminal have caved in

Divisional Railway Manager, Bengaluru Division, Shyam Singh claimed that he was not aware of the issue and asked TNIE to share photos of the damage so that it could be taken up with the Constructions Division of SWR.

General Manager, SWR, Sanjeev Kishore, did not answer calls.

However, a senior railway official said, "Everyone in Bengaluru Division and the Constructions Division are aware of the matter. A massive cover-up is on as it is really embarrassing that the structures have got damaged even before the inauguration. The problems have reached Railway Board officials."

The terminal in Byappanahalli, modelled on the lines of the Kempegowda International Airport, was planned to be launched by June 2019. However, major construction flaws delayed its inauguration.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

08th February : Today's Moon favours everyone with a strong dose of practical common-sense. If you include yourself in this group, then this is the perfect time for you to set out to achieve your goals. All you have to do is join the rest of us in working out what is realistically possible; dreams don't come true unless you make them!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
There's an intriguing series of astrological rulerships today, with one planet connected to another in a chain circling your horoscope. The upshot is that this is a perfect moment to take professional decisions. Above all, though, you need to make some extra time for yourself.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
You are undoubtedly a highly emotional person, and very sensitive to the fact that other family members frequently seem to undervalue you. Yet, with the Moon so influential today, you must stand firm and believe in yourself. Eventually other people will believe in you as well.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
It's a time of movement and growth, yet ironically so much depends on your reaction to delays, frustrations and imposed restrictions. In other words, don't let imaginary obstacles blind you to marvellous opportunities. Check out a major problem and you'll see how fast it disappears.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Today's dominant planetary aspect colours your life for the next week. My advice is to highlight co-operation, but to insist that other people follow your ideas and plans rather than the reverse, which is so often the case. All it takes is a little of your gentle, persuasive charm.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Professional influences in your horoscope are due to intensify briefly before dying down at the end of the week. Colleagues will be impressed by your caring, compassionate nature and a display of emotion may even go down well. Other people will be pleased to see that you really are concerned with their welfare.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Today's Moon is, first of all, a deeply favourable presence in your chart, and should help stabilise your emotions and keep you in a contented mood. If you've not arranged a break, do so now. If you've made plans already, now is the time to fill in the details.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
In the past you may have imagined that all your efforts and sacrifices were in vain. However, within a few days you should see that you did the right thing, even if for the wrong reasons! At least there is some satisfaction in knowing how you can deal with the same problem next time round.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You really are the brightest of the bunch at the moment. No matter how you have been put down in the past by people who imagine they are smarter than you, you must now push and promote your own original ideas. If you don't make the first move, nobody else will.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Mercury's celestial relationships are just what you like most: unusual, stimulating, adventurous and independent. A plan, scheme or project you imagined would be a sure-fire success will therefore benefit from a complete rethink. Everything is up for grabs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Many Capricorns are complaining about their lot. Let me make one thing clear: almost all your problems may be solved by a change of attitude. To an extent, your ideas are now out of date and behind the times. They'll be back in fashion eventually, but not yet!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
I don't see any real chance of misunderstandings, mistakes or blunders. On the contrary, your horoscope is assuming a brighter prospect, enabling you to make the most of better family and personal relationships. There could even be professional benefits.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
The current lunar alignment is a supportive one for Pisceans, for it helps stabilise your rampant emotions. However, it will also remind you of the necessity of dealing with, or discussing, certain practical tasks you'd much rather would go away!

STATE CASELOAD SEES BIG DROP

Bengaluru: Daily Covid infections in Karnataka declined to 6,151 on Monday, taking the total positive cases to 39,02,309, according to the health department. The cumulative fatalities stood at 39,396 as the state reported 49 deaths, the department said.

State looks to sequence 10K samples

Patients with international travel history (irrespective of CT value)

Representative samples from clusters/focal outbreaks with severe morbidity and/or mortality

Seriously sick, hospitalised patients and prolonged hospital admissions

Cases of Covid-19 re-infection

Exercise, which will run for 10 days, to understand virus and mutations, keep track of new variants

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA has been entrusted with a target of genome sequencing 10,000 samples in the next 20 days.

Samples from the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR)-approved government and private RT-PCR labs in the state have been instructed to select 10 per cent of their daily samples for special whole genome sequencing (WGS), along with relevant data, in an appropriate format from district hospital laboratories.

The WGS is a process of determining the DNA sequence of an organism's genome — in this case that of the SARS-CoV-2 virus — to understand the nature of the variant and whether it has undergone mutations. The order was issued by the Department of Health & Family Welfare on Monday, on the instruction of the Union Health Secretary.

All district surveillance officers and officers at sentinel sites will have to now send the samples to the National Institute of Mental Health & Neuro Sciences (NIMHANS) and IN-Stem in Bengaluru for sequencing.

"As per the Union Health Secretary's instructions given during the video conference held on December 31, a target of 10,000 samples have to be sequenced. Though the routine whole genome sequencing is undertaken with 15 samples fortnightly from each district, the state has now been instructed to conduct a special genomic sequencing surveillance of Covid-19 with a larger proportion of daily positive samples to be sequenced from 2nd to 28th February," the order stated.

State health officials said keeping track of any new variant of concern is now of extreme importance, and also the spread of Omicron's sub-lineage BA.2 — also known as the "stealth variant" — has been leading to an increase in the number of Covid-19 cases in many countries, including India. This sampling will help in not only identifying the dominating lineage in the state, but also track any new variant, the officials said.

The accessibility to data upload was initially with sentinel sites but is now extended to District Surveillance Officers.

Asthma patient visits govt hospitals, denied bed

RANJANI MADHAVAN @ Bengaluru

THOUGH there is no shortage of hospital beds and the government claims that only 2 per cent of Covid-19 patients are hospitalised, Mahadevamma (54) suffering from asthma and suspected to have contracted Covid-19, was unable to find a bed easily in a government hospital on Sunday. Her son Ravi told TNIE that she has had asthma for 25 years, and on Saturday night, she returned from a clinic after receiving an injection. She had a drink of ORS and went to bed.

"When we checked on her around 8.30am the next day, she did not respond and we assumed she was asleep. Around noon, she was still not responding and we called a 108 ambulance, which took under an hour to reach. We went to Victoria Hospital where there was no one to check on her," Ravi said.

He requested hospital authorities to attend to her as it was an emergency, but they made them wait, stating they were busy. Later, a health worker checked her pulse and told the family she needed a ventilator bed and none was available. They suggested she be taken to Sanjay Gandhi Institute of Trauma and Orthopaedics.

"They could have at least given her first aid at Victoria. When we went to Sanjay Gandhi, they too did not admit her as they did not have a ventilator bed. They sent us to Bowring Hospital," he added. By this time, they were joined by Naveed Irfan, a volunteer at Emergency Response Team (ERT) and Mercy Angels, who was trying to help the family get a bed. Though Bowring was reluctant, they finally agreed. "They stabilised her with nebulization, checked her vitals, and did an ECG. A Rapid Antigen Test came negative and an RT-PCR swab was taken," Naveed said.

'Need influence'

They had to call for private ambulance after arranging an ICU bed at Rajiv Gandhi Institute of Chest Diseases (RGICD). On Monday evening, the swab taken for RT-PCR at RGICD showed Covid-positive. "We need influence and contacts to get a hospital bed. Now, we have to shift her again to a Covid-19 hospital," Ravi complained.

Tertiary care centres such as Bowring and Victoria are taking in only Covid-19 patients, but BPL cardholders who need non-Covid care end up there without any idea what to do, pointed out Tauseef Ahmed, also a member of ERT who was trying to help the family.

Health Commissioner D Randeep said an order will soon be issued, clarifying that all non-Covid surgeries, admissions and treatment will commence, with a minimum number of beds reserved for Covid.

Woman beaten, stripped by neighbours turned away by Bellandur cops

ENS @ Bengaluru

A 46-year-old woman has alleged that Bellandur police did not take her complaint after nine people assaulted, stripped and publicly humiliated her over a trivial matter of sweeping the yard in front of her mother's house on Friday.

The victim finally approached Police Commissioner Kamal Pant, who took the complaint on Saturday afternoon and referred it to Deputy Commissioner of Police (Whitefield) S Girish to inquire into the public assault and humiliation, and also why Bellandur police refused to take her complaint.

On Friday afternoon, the victim arrived from her residence in Anekal to her mother's house in Bellandur. After a while, she had started sweeping the yard in front of the house when a neighbour, Ramu Munivenkatappa, raised objections. Nine others joined him, and after an argument, they allegedly assaulted and stripped her. The victim also allegedly lost her gold chain worth Rs 1.2 lakh in the melee. A little later, her 22-year-old son Goutham arrived from college and was shocked to see his mother lying unconscious in front of his grandmother's house, with her clothes ripped. On regaining consciousness and narrating the incident to her son, the latter alerted Hoysala police who asked the family to approach Bellandur police.

The Bellandur police allegedly refused to take her complaint. Goutham reportedly started recording the policemen, hoping to capture their refusal to take the complaint, but he was allegedly dragged inside the station and thrashed by the policemen who subsequently deleted the video.

The victim's attempts to bring the incident to the notice of the immediate superior officer, too, proved futile. Helpless, she and her son approached Police Commissioner Pant and gave him the complaint.

When TNIE called Bellandur police station, they refused to comment. DCP Girish said: "I am not aware of the incident and will verify it and take action."

CAMPUS TENSIONS

Students divided as hijab row spirals

Activists say students who suffered amidst Covid feel insecure about their future in current academic atmosphere

PRAKASH SAMAGA @ Udupi

COLLEGE students in several parts of Udupi and Kundapur are divided over the hijab issue. As both sides -- one demanding hijab, and another opposing it -- appear to be unrelenting, a harmonious resolution does not seem to be in sight. Rights activists say that students who faced many problems due to the pandemic, are now feeling insecure about their future due to the vitriolic campus atmosphere from the past week.

According to some observers in the education sector, videos on social media platforms of students protesting wearing the hijab and saffron shawls are further vitiating the atmosphere and prompting many students to take sides.

Ganesh Mogaveera, principal of Sri Venkataramana PU College, Kundapur, told TNIE that when the hijab row first erupted at a government college in Udupi, videos were widely shared on social media platforms.

"Though students are not allowed to bring mobile phones to our college, some get them and keep them at their regular hangouts. After college hours, they watch such videos and get provoked. Today, we stopped some students when they tried to wear saffron shawls in our college," he said.

Educationist and child rights activist of Udupi, B K Narayan, felt that the hijab issue is very unfortunate. 'It has emerged at this juncture of the pandemic, when children had faced lots of problems in their academics. Due to the pandemic, teachers are also under stress to complete the syllabus. Insecurity and ego due to caste, creed, and economic status should not be there among students,'' he stressed, adding that those qualities, if planted in young minds, could be detrimental.

Meanwhile, MGM College in Udupi got caught in the hijab issue on Monday, with the management advising some students not to wear it from Tuesday onwards in the light of the government's recent order. Some boys, however, insisted that if hijab is allowed, they will wear saffron shawls.

Meanwhile, activist Hussain Kodibengre said the hijab is a fundamental right of Muslim girls, and it should be allowed.

@ Bengaluru, Mysuru

AMID accusations of promoting religious divide after protesting Muslim girls were allowed into a separate classroom at the Government PU College in Kundapur, Primary and Secondary Education Minister B C Nagesh has hit back saying that they let in as a matter of courtesy.

While insisting that all students must adhere to the dress code while attending classes, the minister, in a statement, said that the girls chose to sit in a separate room and continue their protest. Students have been asked to wear uniforms and attend classes, he said.

In Mysuru, the minister reiterated that those wearing hijab or saffron stoles will not be allowed to attend classes. "The girls were allowed to enter campus and sit in a separate room. It is the culture of Pakistan to let women or girl students stand on the roads. Only those who come in uniform will be allowed to attend classes," he said and appealed to the girl students to not fall prey to the agenda of several politicians who are trying to encash on the hijab row.

Meanwhile, several activists tried to gherao the minister during his visit to Mysuru. Members of the Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha and Hasiru Sene, the president of Karnataka Backward Classes Awareness Forum, K S Shivaramu, and others questioned him over not allowing students wearing the hijab to attend classes.

The minister told them that they are awaiting court orders and will take a decision based on it.

Our demand not new: Udupi students

UDUPI: The students of Udupi's Government Women's PU College have denied allegations of college development committee president Raghupathi Bhat, that their demand to allow them to wear hijab inside the class was new. Shifa, a student, said that when she was in the first year, the demand irst came to the fore. "We approached management several times last year. However, we were told to keep quiet. Since all of us have worn hijab since our nursery days, we feel comfortable wearing it," she said.

Now, row engulfs Kodagu colleges

MADIKERI: The waves of unrest made their way into the colleges of Kodagu district on Monday. Many students at colleges in Madikeri and Shanivarsanthe turned up for class in saffron shawls, demanding ban on hijab at the college premises. A group of students at Field Marshal KM Cariappa College in Madikeri turned up in college wearing saffron shawls. However, they were stopped at the gate. Aslo, students of Bharathi Vidyasamsthe in Shanivarasanthe tried entering the college premises wearing saffron shawls and hijab.

HDK: May have to ask farmers' kids to wear green towel

BENGALURU: Former Chief Minister H D Kumaraswamy on Monday waded into the hijab versus saffron shawl row, saying that the JDS might give a call to the children of farmers to wear a green towel while going to school and college. "Society will not progress by wearing saffron shawls or the hijab. On seeing all this, I feel like giving a call to farmers' children to wear a green shawl," he told reporters at Channapatna. He attacked the Congress and BJP, alleging that they are trying to gain political mileage to get votes by instigating the two communities.

CM: Won't bend on river-linking project

ENS @Bengaluru

KARNATAKA will not compromise on its interests in the river-linking project and the state's share should be decided based on water accruing at river basins, state's needs and equitable distribution, said Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai in New Delhi on Monday.

"All the riparian states should be taken into confidence before finalising the Detailed Project Report (DPR) for the project," Bommai said.

His statement comes just days after Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman announced in the Union Budget that Damanganga-Pinjal, Par-Tapi-Narmada, Godavari-Krishna, Krishna-Pennar and Pennar-Cauvery river-linking projects will be taken up. She had said that draft DPRs have been finalised and the Centre will extend support to the states to execute the projects once a consensus is reached among beneficiary states.

Bommai said that his government will take measures to ensure that the state gets its rightful share of water and there is no compromise on that front, as it involves Krishna and Cauvery, which are lifelines of the state. "We have made our stand clear," he asserted.

Sources in the government said, "The state's share has to be decided based on the total quantum of water available by linking peninsular rivers. The state needs to know how it will benefit farmers and the area that can be irrigated with the water available. Also, we cannot just create channels to direct water from one place to another. At many places, we will have to pump water to make it accessible to different areas. Unless the riparian states arrive at a consensus before the DPR is prepared, this project cannot be taken up. That is Karnataka's stand."

Opposition Congress leaders have argued that the river-linking project would help Tamil Nadu more than Karnataka.

On Tuesday, the chief minister has lined up a meeting with legal experts to discuss the state's inter-state water disputes.

Bommai meets Amit Shah with performance report

BENGALURU: Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai met Union Home Minister Amit Shah in New Delhi late on Monday evening. While the CMO in Bengaluru stated that during the meeting, the CM handed over a booklet on his government's achievements in the last six months and explained the various pro-people initiatives taken by the BJP government in the state. The CM also handed over a report from the Institute of Social and Economic Change (ISEC) which had studied how the government programmes have helped people. Sources said during the meeting, which lasted for 15 minutes, the ministry expansion may have come up for discussion.

STOP PROVOKING RELIGIOUS SENTIMENTS, SAYS KPCC CHIEF

ENS @ Mangaluru

KARNATAKA Pradesh Congress Committee president D K Shivakumar on Monday accused the BJP government of raising the hijab controversy, claiming that the saffron party is worried about defeat in the elections.

Addressing a press meet here, Shivakumar said that creating a controversy over the hijab is a big insult to the country. "Instead of creating jobs for the youth and tapping the tourism potential of the coastal region, they (the government) have indulged in provoking religious sentiments over minor issues. It is a big conspiracy," he further alleged. Explaining the Congress' stand over the issue, Shivakumar said that the Constitution is "their religion and they are bound to follow it". Referring to one of the girls from a government college in Udupi approaching the Karnataka High Court seeking permission to wear hijab, he said that they will go by the court's order. To another query on the same issue, he stated that the opinions of both Congress leader Rahul Gandhi and the party are the same.

On Energy Minister V Sunil Kumar referring to the nation as 'Hindu Rashtra', Shivakumar stated that the minister should stick to the oath he took as MLA and minister. "He should not try to sow the seeds of hatred. Parents are worried," he noted.

Referring to the rise in prices of essential commodities and disinvestment in PSUs, he felt that the people of the country are yearning for change. Meanwhile, the KPCC chief said that the party has set a target to enrol 50 lakh members in the state during the ongoing membership drive.

Women's forum hits out at state govt over headscarf issue

BENGALURU: The National Federation of Indian Women (NFIW) on Monday condemned the State Government for preventing Muslim girls from wearing the hijab, and drawn parellels with the Taliban. "The ministers should know that girls wearing hijab are not 'spokespersons for the Taliban', and they can never be. It is really ironical that the Taliban as well as Hindu fundamentalist forces work against women's education," it said.

Minister suspects 'unseen force' behind controversy

BENGALURU: As the internet roared with disapproval, Congress leader and MP Shashi Tharoor tweeted, "Breaking news from Karnataka, or heart-breaking news? Since when is religious segregation permitted in our country for secular activities like general education? Does this college have no copy of the Constitution?" But Home Minister Araga Jnanendra suspected an 'unseen force' behind the hijab controversy, and said the police department is already conducting an inquiry to trace the culprits. Amid all the brouhaha, the real issue of students losing out on education has been ignored, lamented experts.

Hijab-saffron shawl protests spread to other dists

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

THE hijab and saffron shawl row, which erupted in Udupi district, has now spread to several other districts.

In Shivamogga, when some students of Sahyadri Commerce College, wearing saffron shawls, tried to enter the premises, they were denied entry by the college authorities. Later, these students took a protest march from the Sahyadri Commerce College to Sahyadri Science College and demanded the college to ask all students to adhere to the state government's rules regarding uniforms. They also raised slogans such as 'Jai Shri Ram' 'Bharat Mata Ki Jai'.

A similar protest was staged at ATNCC College. While one group asked the principal to permit hijab, another group insisted on uniform rules for all students. The college principal said a separate room will be provided to remove and wear hijab before and after classes. In neighbouring Chikkamagaluru, students of IDSG College staged a protest wearing blue stoles, in support of Muslim girls wearing the hijab, and raised slogans saying "Jai Bhim." Meanwhile, another group of students sporting saffron stoles came face to face with them, and started shouting "Jai Sri Ram" Police arrived at the spot and tried to pacify the striking students.

At Azad Park in the city, over five hundred burqa-clad women and girls wearing the hijab staged a protest under the banner of the Mahila Okkoota to demand the government to allow wearing of hijab.

Up north, in the home district of Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, a group of 50 students entered into college wearing saffron shawls to protest against wearing of hijab by Muslim students at the Government First Grade College at Gandhipur village in Haveri taluk.

Haveri DDPI Jagadishwar B S said, "We have a clear instructions from the State Government and Education Department to follow the guidelines on uniforms strictly in schools and colleges. Action as per law will be taken by the administration against those who do not follow the rules ".

At the Government Women's First Grade College in Gadag, girl students brought saffron shawls and sat in the classroom after some students entered wearing the hijab. Teacher brought these issue to the notice of the principal and the college committee has convened a meeting on Tuesday to announce strict uniform rules for all. "We have been wearing hijab since our childhood and we do not know why the college authorities are stopping us now. It is our right," said a student.

Prajwal slams Union minister's reply on nod for Mekedatu project

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

HASSAN JDS Lok Sabha member Prajwal Revanna, who raised the issue of requisite clearances for the Mekedatu project, has alleged that he did not get "complete and correct answers" from the minister concerned, alleging that the latter had been "economical with the truth."

Prajwal has raised four questions — whether environmental clearance for the Mekedatu project had been granted; the time frame by when environmental clearance is likely to be approved; details of villages likely to be submerged or affected; and action taken by the Government for quick environmental clearance for the project.

In a written response on Monday, Union Minister of State for Environment Forests and Climate Change, Ashwini Kumar Choubey said, "A proposal for grant of terms of reference to conduct environment impact assessment study for construction of Mekedatu Balancing Reservoir was submitted to the Ministry on June 20, 2019. The proposal was considered by the Expert Appraisal Committee, constituted by the ministry to consider the proposal of river valley and hydro-electric project for grant of environment clearance, in its 25th meeting held on July 19, 2019. The committee, after detailed deliberations on the proposed project, inter-alia opined that in view of inter-state issues between Tamil Nadu and Karnataka, an amicable solution needs to be arrived at between the two states."

Prajwal told The New Indian Express that the "amicable solution" has not been mentioned by the Supreme Court in its order and wondered where it cropped up from.

The minister's reply also stated, "The MoEF, after examination of the issues and in consultation with the Ministry of Jal Shakti, has decided to consider the proposal for grant of terms of reference only after acceptance of Draft Pre-feasibility Report by the Ministry of Jal Shakti and Cauvery Water Management Authority."

Anganwadi workers worried as egg prices rise

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WITH the price of eggs breaching the Rs 5 mark, even crossing Rs 6 in some places, anganwadi workers are in a quandary. Eggs are provided at anganwadis and schools as a nutritional supplement with the midday meals.

Anganwadi workers are upset that they have been repeatedly asking the government to look into the price issue, but nothing has been done so far. Some even claimed that they are paying the difference from their pockets while some others are forgoing the responsibility of supplying eggs to children.

Karnataka State Samyukta Anganwadi Workers' Association president K Somashekar told TNIE, "There have been cases when people have suspected that anganwadi workers are taking away eggs meant for children. They do not understand these issues."

When contacted, Women and Child Development Minister Halappa Achar told TNIE, "I am aware of this problem. It was brought to my notice a couple of days ago. I have consulted experts on this and ordered that eggs for distribution be procured locally. The department will call for tenders at the taluk level to procure eggs locally at competitive prices and also keeping in mind that egg is a perishable commodity."

Congress hopes Ibrahim will stay

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@ Bengaluru

SENIOR Congress leaders, especially Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah's coterie, have been making their last ditch effort to convince senior leader C M Ibrahim to remain in the party. Former minister Dr H C Mahadevappa, on Siddaramaiah's advice, called on Ibrahim at the latter's residence here on Monday, and held a meeting over breakfast.

"Since he was the brand image of secularism for which the Congress party stands, we have appealed to him against taking any call about quitting the party. He has, meanwhile, sought time until February 10 to clarify his stand," Mahadevappa told reporters.

Speaking to TNIE over phone, however, Ibrahim clarified that there will be no change in his stand to quit the party and join JDS. "I have found my way and have been touring North Karnataka, starting from Hubballi with a meeting of my wellwishers on February 13," he stated.

River-linking project will disrupt Ghats, fish habitats

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

Officials say linking rivers will change the level of salinity and oxygen, which will disrupt the natural ecosystem and affect the endemic species

THE Western Ghats, on Unesco's World Heritage Site list, will be directly impacted if the Karnataka government implements the Centre's ambitious mega river-linking project. The project will not just impact the fisheries sector, but will also affect the food intake pattern of many who depend on aquatic species for proteins.

Environmentalists point out that the fragile Western and Eastern Ghats will be impacted when natural river courses are changed. Officials from the fisheries department concur that it will mean a huge disruption in the habitat of the fish, and the resultant food chain and people's eating habits. It will change the level of salinity and oxygen, which will disrupt the natural ecosystem and affect the endemic species.

Three species that will be affected are the Mahaseer in the Cauvery, Hilsa and fresh water eels, which are consumed by many. A senior fisheries official, on condition of anonymity, said, "These three species are immediate, but many other migratory species will also be impacted in the food chain."

"It is not just the financial implication, but also the environmental and social implications which need to assessed. Yettinahole is a classic example of this failure. The cost of the project has escalated from Rs 8,000 crore to Rs 23,000 crore, but the project has not moved much," said Kishore Kumar, president of Malanadu Janapara Horata Samiti.

Conservationists say that changing the natural course of a river is not simple, and definitely not practical, like turning the River Sharavati northwards instead of the original Western Ghats. "The government thinks river water flowing into the sea is a waste. But it doesn't realise that it's the natural course and important for estuaries, aquatic life and protection of native and endemic vegetative species. The plan was prepared by the National Water Board in the 1980s, but now the ground water situation, population, urbanisation and even water level in rivers has changed," points out Prof (retd) MB Kumaraswamy, economist and author. Environmentalists have also raised questions on the ecological impact, when around 300 dams will have to be constructed to link the rivers, and coal energy generated to pump water upstream. The Telugu Ganga project and Kerala's Silent Valley project are classic examples of the failure of such projects.

"Linking five man-made rivers in Rajasthan to provide water to a parched state cannot be replicated in Karnataka, where the topography is different. Karnataka has a large section of the Western Ghats, connects to the Eastern Ghats and is also linked to the sea. Each region needs a specific environmental impact assessment and local solutions should be found to meet the water requirement," said Kalgundi Naveen, author and teacher.

RTI activists say they have filed applications seeking details of the project, but no state has shared them.

Kerala Guv nod for amendment to Lok Ayukta Act

With this, powers of the institution stand diluted as it turns into an advisory body

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ T'Puram

AVOIDING another stand-off with the Pinarayi Vijayan government, Kerala Governor Arif Mohammed Khan on Monday promulgated the Kerala Lok Ayukta Act (Amendment) Ordinance that curtails the power of Lok Ayukta and converts the anti-corruption watchdog as an advisory body.

Governor Khan, who had sat over the draft ordinance approved by the state cabinet for three weeks, signed the ordinance after Vijayan calling on him on Sunday night. The CM explained the circumstances under which the government came out with an ordinance mainly for amending Section 14 of the Kerala Lok Ayukta Act, 1999. This section empowers the Lok Ayukta to remove a corrupt public official from office and deter him or her from holding the post again. The government is of view that the provision is "Constitutionally untenable". According to the amendment, the recommendation for action against a minister will be reviewed by the CM and that against the CM will be reviewed by the Governor after conducting a hearing within three months of the date of recommendation. They can either accept or reject after the hearing. Another amendment is to enable retired high court judges also to hold the post of Lok Ayukta. As per the original act of 1998 only a retired chief justice of HC or a retired judge of the Supreme Court is eligible.

Meanwhile, the Opposition UDF and BJP have accused the government of trying to weaken the Lok Ayukta.

Opposition Leader VD Satheesan alleged that the Governor and the LDF Government had reached a pact.

No bail to former chancellor of Alliance varsity

ENS @Bengaluru

A city court has declined bail to Madhukar G Angur, ex-chancellor of Alliance University, in a case registered by the ED for misappropriation of funds. "The material evidence placed at this stage shows that the money collected from students has not been deposited to the Alliance University account. It has been diverted to different accounts. Investigation is in progress. Therefore, the petitioner is not entitled for bail", said Anil B Katti, Principal City Civil and Sessions Judge, while dismissing the bail petition recently.

The ED's counsel argued that Alliance University, under an unregistered contract with Srivari Educational Services, and as per the directives of the petitioner, payments were released on behalf of the varsity. The fees from 4,500 students was deposited from January 2017 to November 2017 in a bank account that was opened illegally in the name of Srivari Educational Services. Also, Rs 107 crore collected in the said account was subsequently transferred to the personal account of the petitioner and others, he argued.

HARASSED BY COPS, SAYS WOMAN ACCUSED OF BLACKMAILING MLA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

WHILE BJP MLA from Sedam Rajkumar Patil Telkur has filed a complaint against a woman accusing her of blackmailing him, the latter has submitted a petition to the police accusing the legislator of cheating her.

Telkur had filed a complaint with the Vidhana Soudha police on Saturday, accusing the woman of blackmailing him for money and threatening to tarnish his image. Based on his complaint, the police had registered an FIR against the woman and others. On Sunday, the police picked up the woman from her house and had questioned her. A few others were also quizzed. The woman, who held a press conference with her advocate on Monday, accused the police of torturing her. "I was taken to the police station in the morning and I was let free only at 9 pm. The police behaved very badly," she alleged.

She claimed that the MLA and his wife had met her at a star hotel in Vasanthnagar. "He had admitted that my son was his son and had promised to take care of the expenses and educate him. But he has not kept his word," the woman alleged, adding that she knew Telkar since childhood.

The women said she was seeking justice for her son and had no intention to blackmail the MLA.

Accompanied by her advocate, the woman went to Police Commissioner's office and filed a complaint against Telkur, accusing him of cheating her. However, no case is registered based on her complaint. Meanwhile, Telkur said that he is ready to face the investigation. "I have filed a complaint in the police station against the woman. I will abide by the judgment of the court".

CUBBON Park police arrested Girish Gururaj, brother of Sandeep Gururaj, former Deputy General Manager, Finance, of the Manipal Group in connection with the swindling of Rs 75 crore belonging to the company. Sandeep Gururaj is the kingpin of the case. Police said Girish had assisted his brother in the embezzlement by diverting the swindled money to other companies.

"Girish is named 11th accused in the case. There are email communications between the brothers which established that they had planned to start Beehive Advisers, which was later started by Sandeep and his wife PN Charusmitha," the police said. It is alleged that Girish routed the misappropriated money by buying properties in Mysuru at an undervalued price. He was arrested recently and released on bail. The embezzlement came to light in 2019, and police had earlier arrested Sandeep, his wife and others.

IMPLICATIONS OF JIHAD-SOFT NEW PAK ENVOY TO THE U.S.

With the US approving career-diplomat-turned-politician Masood Khan (70) as Pakistan's new envoy, the curtain came down on the vetting process by the host nation. Though Pakistan proposed his name in November last, the Biden administration took an inordinately long time, leading to speculation. American Congressman Scott Perry's letter to Biden seeking to extend the pause on Khan's approval citing his soft spot for jihadi terrorists, Pakistan subsequently accusing India of pressuring the State Department, and the Indian foreign office's riposte had built up the whole drama. Khan's positions mirror his country's powerful military, such as demanding the release of Pakistani neuroscientist Afiya Siddiqui, jailed in the US for 86 years for plotting the mass murder of American soldiers in Afghanistan in 2010. With a hostage taker at a Jewish centre in Texas making the same demand recently, the jihadist echo couldn't be missed. She is also known as 'lady al-Qaeda', and over 50 people have been killed so far globally in attempts to free Siddiqui or avenge the arrest.

Khan's appointment comes at a time when redrawing of constituencies to facilitate elections in Jammu and Kashmir is about to be wrapped up. A delimitation panel has proposed bunching of 18 Assembly seats in each parliamentary constituency while treating the Union territory as one unit instead of the existing watertight Jammu and Srinagar compartments. One fallout is that the Anantnag parliamentary seat will have Assembly seats from both South Kashmir as well as Poonch and Rajouri in Jammu region. National Conference patron Farooq Abdullah has already trashed the proposals.

Be that as it may, Khan would try to ratchet up a storm in the US against J&K elections whenever they are held. Since he was PoK President for five years till August 2021, he can be expected to be particularly shrill. But a country that is a basket case and seen as the epicentre of global terror does not have any credibility. He could perhaps channelise his vast diplomatic skills in persuading President Biden to take a phone call from Prime Minister Imran Khan. If he could pull that off, it would be a balm on one bruised ego, as the two haven't spoken ever since Biden's inauguration as President in January last year.

SMOOTH TRANSITION TO SENIOR CRICKET NEEDED

One word that would aptly capture the success of India U-19 cricketers at the World Cup in the Caribbean is cerebral. There was no team that came close to beating them. The bunch of young cricketers showed immense maturity and skill, sometimes far beyond their age, to humble some of the best nations in the world. It was fitting that they played Australia and England—the other two top countries—in the semifinal and final before lifting the trophy. It was a reflection of their complete dominance in a sport that is worshipped in the country. The bunch of boys led by Yash Dhull knew how to construct an innings and wade out of a difficult situation in style. They believed in the collective when six players, including captain Dhull, could not play after testing positive for Covid and the support staff had to carry drinks. Despair was not in their jargon and the historic fifth title in the tournament will always remain sweet.

The path to the senior cricket team is strewn with innumerable challenges. The young World Cup winners too can go astray like any teenager. In India, like most countries, over-training has led to players abandoning the sport too early. A lot of experts nod in unison when they say juniors are pushed so hard that it leads to burnout. Sometimes, they lose interest and don't enjoy the sport that they have grown with. Not all will play for the senior team either. There would be a lot of moral and mental dilemmas to deal with for most of them who might be on the fringes and may not make it big. Especially after being crowned the world champions, they would always be compared with the likes of Virat Kohli, Mohammad Kaif, Yuvraj Singh or Rishabh Pant. In sports, as in life, we will face failures. One has to learn to take that in stride. For this batch, getting a senior call may not be easy. The Indian cricket board, their coaches, parents and family must help them cope with the higher demands of professional sports. They are young and we must ensure their holistic growth.

The Russians were patient till 2014. As NATO absorbed nations of the former Warsaw Pact and former Soviet republics, it was like the slow turn of the screw

UKRAINE AT THE DOORSTEP OF UNLIKELY WAR

So, Russia is once again gearing up for invasion and war. The Former Soviet Union (FSU) often did it in the past. In 1956, Hungary, a Warsaw Pact country, announced the decision to introduce free elections and to leave the agreement. However, the FSU could not allow Hungary to overthrow its government and leave the Warsaw Pact as this would destroy the unity of the Soviet bloc and weaken the defences of the FSU. It used 1,200 tanks and about 35,000 troops for the invasion. In the 1960s, following similar efforts by the Czechoslovakian leadership, the Soviet Union invaded that country in 1968 employing approximately 2,00,000 troops and 5,000 tanks. That was the heyday of the Cold War and many believed that Moscow wished to demonstrate and project its willingness to employ force when its interests mattered. However, Moscow has always had a propensity to do everything with an overkill. In March 1969, the Soviet Army fired more than 10,000 rockets and shells from its newly developed BM 21 Grad Multi Rocket Launchers and other heavy artillery on the Damansky Island, which was disputed with the Chinese. It was believed that the course of the Ussuri River changed due to this barrage. So, when Russia, the core republic of the FSU that inherited the Soviet legacy, decides to mass 1,20,000 troops and over 1,200 tanks north and east of the Russo-Ukrainian border, things have to be taken seriously. In addition, this deployment extends into Belarus, which borders Ukraine as an extension in the north. Crimea, which has the strategic port of Sevastopol where the Black Sea fleet anchors, has already been occupied by Russia in 2014. There are Russian naval vessels on their way to the Black Sea as a reinforcement even as its Navy is exercising worldwide. Russia has announced the deployment of advanced Su-35 fighter planes to Belarus, along with S-400 air-defence systems, munitions and medical support. Russian Spetznaz special operations forces and Iskander missile units were also on the ground in Belarus. Russia could calibrate it by upping the ante in Donetsk and Luhansk, the two easternmost areas of Ukraine, where Russian proxies are already active.

Is there a chance of war in Europe, the least likely theatre in many years because of a carefully drawn-out balance? That balance actually became a misnomer once the Warsaw Pact was dismantled and Russia was militarily and economically weakened after the Cold War. America's and NATO's hard grind to extract the last ounce of security from that situation, and persisting with it beyond reason, is now upsetting everything. The Russians were patient till 2014; they really had very few options. As NATO absorbed nations of the former Warsaw Pact and former Soviet republics, it was like the slow turn of the screw; its eastward march threatened Russian security. Ukraine is not just another former republic; geo-strategically, it juts into heartland Russia and rests on the Black Sea too. It has a 46 million population that is seeking betterment of life through greater integration with the West. Moscow has already got a foot in the door through eight long years of hybrid invasion, which has seen the Ruble become the accepted currency in the eastern part of Ukraine (Donetsk and Luhansk) where ethnic Russians exist in near majority. Russian President Vladmir Putin could do more demonstration, akin to the invasion of Crimea, by simply taking over and merging Donetsk and Luhansk with Russia. It would present a fait accompli and with some demographic tweaking, a sizable Russian majority could be created. A Russia-friendly Belarus in the north, willing to host even nuclear weapons, helps in all this, especially since ethnic Slavic commonality also links the two.

What Russia has to be mindful of is the fact that Ukrainian nationalism also runs high. A direct military assault on the nation with an attempt to take capital Kiev through Special Forces is not going to go uncontested. The Ukrainian armed forces are 2,50,000 strong and a 1,00,000 increase over the next three years has already been announced. An Iraq-style resistance to permanent stationing of Russian troops is not going to permit a cakewalk like the 1968 Czechoslovakia invasion.

> The Russians will continue depending on historical precedence to bolster threats and perhaps execute a small skirmish-based demonstration. High dosage of hybrid war will follow. There appears to be little chance of conventional war

At the height of the Cold War, the US had almost 4,00,000 troops deployed in Europe to deter a Soviet invasion. The doctrine of deterrence was however backed by a willingness to go nuclear (including first strike). Today there are 70,000 US troops stationed in Europe, with half of them in Euro heartland Germany. The US has placed 8,000 troops on state of high alert, to be deployed. However, none of these troops are likely to fight in Ukraine; they are to defend the heartland, so to say. Nuclear deterrence may not work here as Russia has drawn the redline on any further attempts to absorb Ukraine into NATO. In fact, as a part of its strategy it is even demanding that NATO remove all former Warsaw Pact nations and former Soviet republics, but that is an overkill that the Russians know too well.

It's not the military dimension that is important for the moment; the economic one takes priority, especially when one looks at the energy management of Europe. Russia has used energy revenue to accumulate some $630 billion in foreign exchange reserves. In 2021, for example, the Kremlin put its oil price expectation at $45 per barrel; that year, prices averaged nearly $70 a barrel leading to improved Russian reserves. With this Moscow has insulated itself from the effects of economic sanctions imposed on it. Overall, Russia supplies about one-third of European natural gas consumption, used for winter heating and much more. In reality neither side can do more in the energy versus sanctions game. War may not be entirely localised. If it happens the energy infrastructure may also get affected. A Europe reeling under the negativity of immigration, pandemic and then energy shortages is going to find it extremely difficult not to adhere to the Russian demand. It's the US that won't and schisms within NATO are already evident.

The Russians will continue depending on historical precedence to bolster their threats and perhaps execute a small skirmish-based demonstration somewhere. High dosage of hybrid war will follow; there appears to be little chance of conventional war. There are no early solutions either but tensions in Europe will affect many other emerging strategic standoffs and the behaviour of ambitious big powers such as China. It's a standoff worth observing with focus.

SURYA WORSHIP & SCULPTURES IN ANCIENT KARNATAKA

R H KULKARNI

Professor, Dept of Art History, College of Fine Arts, Karnataka Chitrakala Parishath

Magha Shuddha Saptami, the seventh day before Purnima of the month of Magh, is celebrated as Ratha Saptami. The Sun God is believed to turn his chariot towards north on this day and it is also popularly called Surya Jayanti and Magha Saptami.

In all ancient civilisations, worship of the Sun and depiction in plastic form have been recorded in the form of sculptures and paintings. Indians have been worshipping the Sun since the Vedic age. The Rig Veda's 10th mandala has illustrated details about the Adityas, who are synonymous with Surya. The Shatapatha Brahmana, Siva Purana and Bhagavata Purana have stories connected to the birth of the Adityas. There are 12 Adityas, who are the children of Kashyapa and Aditi. They are Yama, Aryaman, Indra, Ravi, Varuna, Dhatr, Bhaga, Savitr, Surya, Amsa, Mitra and Daksha as per the Shatapatha Brahmana. The Vishnu Purana has Vishnu and Pushan instead of Yama and Daksha. The Sun, pivotal in all aspects of life, is praised even through the Gayatri Mantra.

The texts speak about Surya's iconography in detail. He has a ratha driven by seven horses with Aruni as charioteer. He is accompanied by Usha and Pratyusha, who would shoot arrows of rays. He is also depicted with Chaya and Prabha. Their duty is to create shadow and light, with which Surya would create the day and night. He has two attendants Danda and Pingala, always shown with interesting attributes. Danda would be depicted with a staff or sword and shield while Pingala has a pen and an ink pot. It is to be noted that many ancient ruling families claimed to have belonged to the solar race or Surya's clan. Surya as the form of Vishnu has been known as Surya Narayana.

Surya as Marthanda is an important associate divinity in the Kalamukha Saiva School. In panchayatana—the five groups of the premier divinities (Siva, Vishnu, Ganapatya, Devi and Surya)—the Saura group forms a genre of the Aditya cult. Surya is portrayed as the first nakshatra in the constellation and first among the Navagrahas. In Yogasana, Surya Namaskara is one of the very important parts.

In India, the depiction of Surya perhaps first appeared in a Buddhist context. Surya images mounted on a chariot with horses were depicted in Barhut stupa and Bhaja chaitya in relief sculpture. In North India, Surya is depicted with two-armed seated and standing forms; he has mostly been portrayed with a moustache and heavy footwear. Such examples are found in the Kushana and subsequent periods.

Surya worship became popular in the Badami Chalukya period (543–757 CE). The Early Chalukyas built a good number of temples dedicated to Aditya-Surya. The Aditya cult appears to have been practised and patronised by Pulakeshi II (610–642 CE). He used the name Aditya as a prefix or suffix for the names of his sons—Adityavaraman, Chandraditya and Vikramaditya. Badami Chalukya kings who came later also had the name Aditya.

A majority of the temples built at Aihole were dedicated to Surya. The Durga, Lad Khan, Suryanarayana and Badiger Gudi Temples were dedicated to the Sun God. The Malegitti Sivalaya in Badami (c. 630 CE) was also dedicated to Aditya. These have been identified by scholar Dr Srinivas Padigar of Dharwad as Aditya temples based on sculptural evidence. The figures of Aditya depicted on the shikhara, lalata pattika (architrave), garbhagriha and pillars of these temples help in this identification. Besides these, Surya also has been depicted slaying Chaya in the Malegitti Sivalaya and Aihole's Durga Temple (c. 600 CE). The myth says that Chaya could not sustain the heat of Surya and ran away from him, and disguised herself as half horse and half female. Having found his beloved Chaya in this form, he forced her to join him back. The image depicted here portrays Surya with the zooanthropomorphic form of Chaya, which is not only rare but also an important iconographic development.

Surya in samabhanga as an idol for worship is installed in temples. A standing Surya will have lotus flowers in both hands folded upward. He is depicted with two arms and in the case of Surya Narayana, there would be four arms. The serpent would also be depicted along with a prabhavali (halo). Surya sculptures were installed during the Chalukya period in Aihole's Suryanarayana temple (c. 640 CE, it is near the Durga temple). Surya standing in samabhanga holds lotus flowers in both the hands, while his prabhavali has attendant figures.

Besides the free standing idols, the images are also used as ceiling panels. One such fine example is at the Virupaksha temple in Pattadakal. The image is carved in a square composition; Surya stands in a ratha accompanied by his consorts Usha and Pratyusha, who are shooting arrows. The retinue are airborne and depicted as constituent figures. The sculpture was carved by the artist Devaputra (734 CE).

After the Badami Chalukyas, the Gangas of Talakadu patronised Surya worship. A large sculpture, now preserved in the Srirangapatna museum, depicts Surya in samabhanga with lotus in both the hands. He has Danda and Pingala as his dwarapalas. This is one of the largest Surya sculptures of the period. Kalyan Chalukya and Hoysala sculptors created more elaborate and refined sculptures, with Dashavatara and Ashta Vasu images, and also sometimes Ashta Dikpalaka images carved on the prabhavalis. Surya worship is an important part of Indian spirituality, and the belief continues even today in the form of the current celebrations.

Vacuum that can't be filled

In the passing away of the Nightingale of India, the nation has lost one of its legends. Lata Mangeshkar's death has led to a vacuum that can't be filled. Even non-Hindi speaking people were mesmerised by the velvet voice of the queen among singers.

AP Thiruvadi, Chennai

She is immortal

Legends like Lata Mangeshkar pass away only physically. The songs she rendered, of which each one is a gem, will ensure her immortality.

Take responsibility

A combative Prime Minister Narendra Modi, in his reply to the debate on the President's address, ripped into opposition parties and the Congress in particular, accusing them of being responsible for the countrywide spread of Covid and the migrant crisis in the first wave. The prime minister ought to have admitted, even belatedly, that it was his imposition of the lockdown without any advance warning that led to the suffering of millions of migrant labourers forced to trudge back home hungry.

TN parties pragmatic

This is with reference to the editorial DMK's federation has potential (Feb 7). Dravidian parties, whether the DMK or AIADMK, have been successful in implementing social justice to an extent. But they are not wholly successful and to cite just an example, 'honour killings' are still very much prevalent in Tamil Nadu. They are pragmatic as far as Centre-state relations are concerned. They have no hesitation in aligning with whichever party comes to power at the Centre, for the benefit of the state. When it comes to federalism, I think we are reading too much into the recent move.

Insight into India

The article Ekapada, the single-footed divinity (Jan 28) is interesting and provides insight about magnificent divine forms in Indian history. Usually modern people are aware of only some aspects of Hinduism. Scholarly articles such as this provide a spark for us to learn more. A true search about the emergence of these belief systems will help us and make us learn more about the force behind all these processes of miraculous existence.

Farmer anger matters in close fight

Tikait's call against BJP may swing votes; communal rift between Jats & Muslims narrower

RICHA SHARMA @Shamli/Baghpat/Muzzafarnagar

IT is the battle for legacies in Jat-Muslim-dominated western Uttar Pradesh that goes to the polls on February 10. The fight is between "work done" by Babaji (as UP CM Yogi Adityanath is known in the state) and legacies of two Jat leaders — former prime minister Chaudhary Charan Singh and Mahendra Singh Tikait. There is perceptible anger among farmers against the BJP.

The 'baap-dada' (elders) allegiance runs deep among the people in Baghpat, Muzaffarnagar, Shamli, and Meerut. The communal narrative changed things electorally in 2013 with Jats voting en masse for the BJP. About 90 per cent of Jats in western UP voted for the BJP in the 2019 Lok Sabha polls. The figure was 77 per cent in the 2017 Assembly elections.

This time the communal divide appears to have narrowed with the farmer agenda ruling the Jat minds. Bharatiya Kisan Union leader Rakesh Tikait has repeatedly called for 'punishing the BJP'. This could sway a section of Jats towards the Rashtriya Lok Dal (RLD), an SP ally.

Rashtriya Lok Dal leader Jayant Chaudhary campaigns in Meerut on Monday | PTI

TNIE @ GROUND ZERO

Chaudhary Rajveer Baliyan, who was at the Gazipur border for 10 months during the farmers' agitation, says that the protest brought about a loyalty change for Jats and that most of them would now abide by Tikait's call.

"He (Tikait) is the head of our clan and is very respectable to us. We will do whatever he says. When the Yogi government has shut its eyes on farmers, then how can they see the problems faced us?" asks Baliyan, 65, as he is busily cuts the sugarcane crop. He comes from Muzaffarnagar.

Many in the community remember former PM Chaudhary Charan Singh's work and his son and former Union minister Ajit Singh. "All sugar mills in the region are because of him," says Rajender Singh, a farmer from Baraut seat in Baghpat.

A section of the people are upset that neither Ajit nor his son Jayant turned up after the 2013 Muzaffarnagar riots to meet the affected families. Jayant is now leading the RLD.

"Sonia Gandhi came and met Muslim families but there was none to back us. Our leader (Ajit) also left us. It was the BJP that took up our case. 'Babaji' has taken several steps to benefit farmers. Ration has been available during Covid and law and order has improved in the region. We respect our farmer leaders but will vote for the party that stands behind us when we need it," says Vijender Singh, who comes from the Kairana constituency in Shamli, a hub of the 2013 riots.

The people irrespective of their loyalties, however, never fail to mention there is a 'kante ki takkar' (neck-and-neck) between the SP-RLD and BJP in west UP, but the former will have an edge.

BELLWETHER

WESTERN UP WILL CREATE A PERCEPTION FOR THE REST

THE campaigning for UP polls has reached a frenzied pitch with all parties realising what they are up against. They already knew what was at stake, but a few weeks into actual campaigning have made them confront the ground realities..

The impact of this realisation is apparent in the blitzkrieg by the BJP leaders in western UP districts where polling is scheduled on February 10 and 14. Every other day, the party's top brass — Amit Shah, Rajnath Singh, JP Nadda, Yogi Adityanath — is touring some district or the other, combined with virtual rallies by PM Modi himself. As for other parties, BSP chief Mayawati, SP leader Akhilesh Yadav, Rashtriya Lok Dal leader Jayant Chaudhary, AIMIM leader Asaduddin Owaisi and Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi Vadra are engaged in high-pitch campaigning in districts adjoining Delhi such as Gautam Buddh Nagar (Noida), Ghaziabad, Bulandshahar, Aligarh, etc.

BJP had been a little shaky about its support among Jats and other non-Muslim communities in western UP, particularly because of the long-drawn farmers' protest and resurgence of the SP-RLD combine in many districts including Meerut. The ambiguity of Bhartiya Kisan Union (BKU) leader Rakesh Tikait on supporting either BJP or any other party had also caused an uncertainty. But the BJP responded by organising a massive campaigning by its top brass during which Amit Shah met Jat leaders, local community organisations, traders' associations. It was at one such campaign when he threw a hint that RLD's Jayant Chaudhary was "welcome" to change his mind.

Lost ground

The resultant confusion and the leaders' visits sustained on a daily basis has helped the BJP recover some lost ground, although it will be too early to say if the entire region will come to the BJP's support as it did in 2017, when the party won 53 out of 58 seats. It was made possible by a socio-political rift between the Jats and Muslims — a combination that had been strong for decades till 2013-14, when the riots in Muzaffarnagar caused the two communities to move apart.

There was also a time that the RLD had its own pockets of influence stretching from Meerut up to Mathura and the Jats — the party's major supporters — wielded influence in about 25-30 seats. Dalits and Muslims were thought to have an impact on about 30-35 seats. The BJP's massive victory was made possible by the Jats and Dalits voting in its favour, causing a loss to RLD and SP in the elections in 2014, 2017 and 2019.

Sensing the loss of support in the region, the BJP has revived the fears of Hindu-Muslim riots, the sway of criminals in places like Kairana and Shamli, and the choice of candidates by SP. By repeatedly referring to the SP as a party having a soft corner for criminals, and also ridiculing the coming together of Akhilesh Yadav and Jayant Chaudhary, the party expects the Jats to take the lead in shifting towards it.

Ratan Mani Lal
Political Analyst, associated with Peoples Pulse, a Hyderabad-based research organisation

For the SP and RLD, the problem is that the BSP, too, has their areas of influence. In the 58 seats of the first phase, the BSP has fielded 16 Muslims, 18 OBCs, 15 from the upper castes, followed by only 9 Dalits. It is obvious that the BSP intends to eat into the Muslim base of the SP even if it goes in the BJP's favour. In her campaign also, Mayawati has kept SP and Congress on target, sparing BJP.

Muslim shift

Incidentally, Owaisi, too, is visiting Muslim pockets in the region and trying to mobilise the community on the premise of having someone from among themselves as being their representative. His consistent argument has been that Muslims need to have their own leadership rather than looking out to parties.

If the BSP and AIMIM manage to eat into a significant number of Muslim votes — regardless of whether they win seats — the SP-RLD assessment can take a hit. For the BJP, which is banking heavily on the fissure between the Jats and Muslims, it could be good news. The Congress campaign is also not targeted at the Jats and also does not appear to woo Muslims either. The desertion by many Muslim leaders, including Imran Masood, has weakened the Congress.

The coming election will prove whether the Jats and Muslims have actually come together after the drift of 2014, and also whether the farmers' agitation actually became an election issue. It will also indicate whether Dalits of western UP would like to rally behind BJP, or the symbolism of a strong Mayawati is more important to them. For RLD's Jayant Chaudhary, it is a test of his political acumen in aligning with the SP. Jats do remember that Jayant's late father Ajit Singhand Mulayam Singh Yadav were strong rivals in the non-Congress, non-BJP political landscape. In fact, Ajit had never forgiven Mulayam for foiling his chances of becoming CM in 1989.

It is also noteworthy that SP's alliances with the Congress in 2017, and with BSP in 2019, did no good to any of the parties. Akhilesh has gained in strength with full control over the party, so much as that even once-estranged uncle Shivpal Yadav has to be content with just one seat in his alliance with SP.

The "pattern" of voting in the first phase on February 10 will spread a perception by word of mouth, and all parties are preparing to create a buzz in their favour on that day itself. This perception is expected to influence voting in the second and third phases. The BJP top leaders' intense campaigning, the regular joint appearances of Akhilesh and Jayant Chaudhary, and Mayawati's statements are all a part of that preparation.

CAMPAIGN PITCH

Early regimes had no thirst for developing UP, says PM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Lucknow/Dehradun

IN two separate virtual rallies, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday cautioned people of voting against history-sheeters in UP and exhorted the voters of Uttarakhand to fight against those who "conspired to block its creation".

Addressing the people of Bijnor in western UP, Modi launched a broadside against the SP- RLD combine on issues ranging from law and order to dynastic politics and corruption.

The PM claimed that vested interests of the then rulers had stalled the development of UP before 2017. "The stream of development was stagnated. It was limited to the fake Samajwadis and their close ones," he said. "These people had no thirst for the development of common man, the thirst for the progress, the thirst for freedom from poverty."

The PM had to switch to virtual mode as his helicopter could not take off due to inclement weather. However, RLD chief Jayant Chaudhary took a jibe, tweeting that the day was sunny in Bijnor but not for BJP. He also posted two photographs — one a screenshot of a news showing the Prime Minister's cancelled trip and the second displaying Google weather update of Bijnor.

As for the Haridwar rally, Modi accused the previous Congress governments of not developing Uttarakhand.

8.42 LAKH VOTERS REGISTERED AS UNEMPLOYED (10% OF ELECTORATE)

Another poll amid lingering issues

VINEET UPADHYAY @Nainital

AS politicians approach them for votes ahead of the Uttarakhand polls, the electorate in Nainital district are seeking solution to a range of issues that plagues them — Covid obliterating revenue from tourism, distress on small traders due to GST, rise in prices of daily-use items such as edible oil and LPG cylinder, non-availability of running water, lack of health and road infrastructure in remote areas, among others.

Former CM and Congress leader Harish Rawat is contesting from Lalkuan in the district, making it one of the hot seats of Uttarakhand.

Najma (43), a resident of Nagina colony in the constituency and mother of two children, says, "Prices of edible oils and LPG cylinder have crossed the threshold of our purchasing capacity. We were poor in Congress rule. Modi has turned us into beggars."

Manoj Giri Goswami (20), another resident of the colony who works as a postman on contract, has an opposite view. "Modi must come again. Look at the roads and other infrastructure. The poor now gets free ration and medical aid. May be the BJP has not done much for the state but see where our country stands. We are on par with big nations like America. Congress always opposes our Army."

The district has six constituencies — Nainital, Bhimtal, Haldwani, Lalkuan, Kaladhungi and Ramnagar — with a total electorate of 7,75,899.

As a plethora of campaign vehicles hired by political parties blares songs in favour of their employer, Anshika waits for her turn to get her bucket filled in a remote pocket of Muktestwar in Haldwani.

"I have to walk over 2km and wait for my turn to get water. On an average it takes over four hours to get water for daily use," says the class 12 student.

Meanwhile, in the last two years, tourism sector has been hard hit by the pandemic forcing many to opt for other career options in the district. Kamal Jagati from Nainital town, who runs a hotel, says: "Tourism is the backbone of our state. Majority of employment is generated by the tourism industry."

The hill state has registered a decline in the number of tourists in last five years, both domestic and international.

Not averse to fielding Muslims: BJP ally

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

EXPLAINING her party's ideological difference with bigger partner BJP, Apna Dal (S) president Anupriya Patel on Monday said that unlike BJP her party was not averse to fielding Muslim candidates.

Disassociating from the Hindutva narrative, the Union minister claimed that Muslim candidates were not untouchable for her party as it stood for social justice. Notably, Apna Dal (S) had declared the first NDA candidate in Haider Ali Khan from Suar in Rampur against SP MP Azam Khan's son Abdullah Azam. Haider Ali, the scion of Rampur royal family and grandson of Congress veteran Begum Noor Bano, was the first candidate announced by Apna Dal (S) for the current Assembly polls in UP. "Yes, we are ideologically different from the BJP. My party does not do religious politics. We stand for social justice. That's our ideology," she said.

Anupriya claimed that her party had always worked for marginalised sections of society, whether on the streets or in Parliament.

Stray cattle & high power bills among plethora of problems faced by farmers

RICHA SHARMA @Muzzafarnagar/Baghpat

SUMIT Baliyan, a farmer from Soram village in Budhana constituency of Muzzafarnagar, says CM Yogi Adityanath wanted to hold a meeting at the historic Soram Chaupal but the sarpanch of his village gave in writing to the district magistrate that they couldn't take the responsibility of hosting the CM as there was growing anger among farmers against BJP.

Soram is considered the headquarters of 36 biradari (caste) khaps in western UP and the chaupal, a centuries-old structure, remains a symbol of power in the region. The place rose to prominence after Mahendra Singh Tikait, in 1988, launched a farmers' agitation from here. Decades later, in 2020, his son Rakesh Tikait gave a clarion call to all farmers to march to Delhi borders.

The agitation added fuel to the fire that was simmering among farmers for long in the sugarcane belt of western UP over several unresolved issues including stray cattle, pending sugar cane dues and high electricity bill. However, in the same breath the farmers praise improved law and order situation and better road infrastructure during BJP's rule.

"This is an anti-farmer government. We still haven't got the payment for last year's sugarcane crop and we are already harvesting this year's crop. Yogi ji promised that payment will happen within 14 days but here we haven't got it for the last 14 months. Electricity price has doubled in the last five years," said Sumit, 30. Budhana seat is important as it is home to sitting MP and Union minister Sanjeev Baliyan.

One thing that is a headache for all farmers is the issue of stray cattle which started during the Adithyanath government after it banned the slaughter of animals. "They brought it keeping in mind the Hindu religion (ban on cow slaughter) but now we all (Hindus) are in massive trouble. The entire night we guard our fields from stray animals, else what will my children eat," says Harinder Singh Pawar, a farmer from Bhora Kalan in Muzzafarnagar. He alleges that the condition of cow shelters started by the BJP government is in bad shape.

There is a growing fear not just among Muslims but among Hindus that if they even catch the stray cattle, they will be hauled up by the police. "Once we caught a stray bull from the field and informed the police. Nearly half-a-dozen vehicles came and we were hauled up and abused and asked to release the animal," said Omkar Singh in Chhaprauli constituency.

Owaisi urged to accept 'Z' cover

SHAHID FARIDI @New Delhi

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah on Monday appealed to AIMIM chief and Lok Sabha MP Asaduddin Owaisi to accept Union government's offer of 'Z' category security as he continues to face high level of security threat.

"There is a threat to Owaisi's security... The government has decided to provide 'Z' category security (with a bullet-proof) car but Owaisi has refused. I request, through the members of the House, that he accept this cover," Shah told Parliament.

Briefing the House about the firing on Owaisi's car in Hapur district of UP last week, the home minister said the government has offered the MP 'Z' category security but he has refused to accept it. He said the AIMIM leader does not even have security from Andhra or Telangana police as he has refused the same.

HISTORY OF TOXIC TWEETS CONFRONTS NEW JNU V-C

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE iconic Jawaharlal Nehru University in New Delhi got a new vice-chancellor in Santishree Dhulipudi Pandit on Monday with controversy following soon after.

She is 59 and the first woman to hold the post at JNU, but what caught the eye was an unverified Twitter handle, @SantishreeD, which had sharp tweets condoning Mahatma Gandhi's assassination, criticising BJP's opponents, minorities and farm union leaders.

The Twitter handle was later deleted but screen shots of the toxic tweets were widely shared. In one tweet, Congress president Sonia Gandhi was termed an "Italian remote control". Another tweet read, "Non-Muslims wake up to Love Jihad which is terror by other means". Some tweets were targeted at JNU, Jamia and St Stephen's college, calling for a ban on funding to these institutions.

Criticising the appointment, TMC spokesperson Saket Gokhale tweeted, "The new Vice-Chancellor of JNU refers to Christians as 'rice bag converts'. She will now head one of India's elite liberal arts universities. Education Min @dpradhanbjp should clarify if that's how Christian students at JNU are going to be treated & if this is Indian govt policy".

Pandit, a political science professor at Savitribai Phule Pune University, is an alumna of JNU where she pursued her MPhil and PhD in International Relations. The appointment is for five years. She succeeded M Jagadesh Kumar, whose term at JNU was mired in controversies.

Born in Russia, Pandit did her schooling in Chennai. She did her BA in history and social psychology in 1983 from Chennai's Presidency College, bagging the first rank and winning gold medal. She also did her MA from the same college and was ranked second. A polyglot, she speaks six languages including Telugu, Tamil and Sanskrit.

Soon after her appointment at JNU, she said her focus would be providing a gender-sensitive environment for academic excellence and implementation of the National Education Policy.

Dera chief gets furlough, to raise Punjab poll heat

Dera chief granted leave of absence owing to good conduct: official

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

THE political temperature in Punjab may soon rise as the Haryana government on Monday gave 21-day furlough to Dera Sacha Sauda chief Gurmeet Ram Rahim Singh, days before the Punjab assembly polls on February 20. The sect has a huge following in Punjab, especially in Malwa region.

The sect head is serving a 20-year jail term for raping two of his women disciples in his 'ashram' in Sirsa. He was convicted in August 2017 by a special CBI court. In 2019, he was pronounced guilty of the murder of journalist Ram Chander Chhatrapati and last year he was convicted of the murder of dera manager Ranjit Singh, who was killed in 2002.

Ram Rahim, who is in Sunaria jail at Rohtak, has been granted the furlough from February 7 to 27. Free from jail, the sect head left for Gurugram.

"The dera head has got the relief on the basis of his good conduct. He has already served three years in jail – a period after which one is entitled for parole," said a senior official.

Sources said Singh cannot visit the sect headquarters in Sirsa (Haryana). Besides, he cannot organise gatherings and will stay at his farmhouse in Gurugram under the protection of Haryana Police.

Political analyst Professor Ronki Ram of Panjab University said: "The dera's political wing will now get more active. It has to be seen which party the dera supports. They might prefer to go with the BJP-PLC-SAD (Sanyukt) alliance."

The SGPC has objected to the furlough. "We are against the Central and Haryana government's decision at this moment as the assembly polls are due in Punjab. Besides, investigations are ongoing in sacrilege cases where his name figures," said SGPC chief Harjinder Singh Dhami. "Sikh prisoners languishing in jails for years are not allowed paroles. The government should review its decision," he said.

In the 2007 and 2012 assembly polls, dera supported the Congress. However, the SAD-BJP government came to power in the state. In 2017, he supported then SAD-BJP alliance, but the party badly lost to Congress.

Dera followers have influence in about 35 seats in the Malwa region of the state. Of the total 117 seats, the Malwa region contributes 69 seats in the Punjab assembly.

Terming it a coincidence, Haryana Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar said, "Gurmeet Ram Rahim has been granted furlough as there is a legal provision. Our decision has no bearing on the elections."

Hyundai in soup over Kashmir tweet

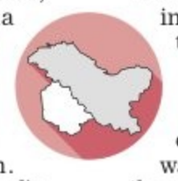
YESHI SELI @New Delhi

SOUTH Korean car manufacturer Hyundai has found itself mired in a cross-border row after their Pakistani arm expressed solidarity with a 'Kashmir Solidarity' day in a tweet.

The tweet from February 5 has led to war of words on social media, in which a largely angry section demanded that Hyundai shut shop in India.

Interestingly, one handle on Twitter said that they cancelled the booking of a Hyundai car and opted for Honda instead.

In a clarification issued by Hyundai India, it stated, "Hyundai Motor India has been committed to the Indian market for more than 25 years now and we stand firmly for our strong ethos of respecting nationalism. The unsolicited social media post linking Hyundai Motor India's offending our unparalled commitment and service to this great country."



"India is second home to the Hyundai brand and we have zero tolerance policy towards insensitive communication and we condemn any such views. As a part of our commitment to India, we will continue our efforts towards the betterment of the country as well as its citizens," the car maker said in the clarification.

Hyundai sells the second highest number of cars in India after Maruti and this backlash could dent their sales and their exports.

Meanwhile, Maharashtra's Shiv Sena MP Priyanka Chaturvedi tweeted, "So many wishy-washy words are not needed. All you need to say is – we are unequivocally sorry."

Against the 50 lakh cars that Hyundai sell in India (and nearly 10 lakh that they export) they sell less than 10,000 cars in Pakistan annually.

No plan on law for bias against minorities, says Union minister

SANA SHAKIL @New Delhi

GOVERNMENT is not planning to bring a law to deal with discrimination against minorities, Union Minority Affairs Minister Mukhtar Abbas Naqvi informed the Parliament on Monday when asked if Muslims are facing discrimination over renting houses in urban communities.

When asked about details of complaints in the matter, Naqvi said that the National Commission for Minorities "considered two complaints regarding denial of flat in 2015 and the same were disposed of after calling reports from concerned authorities."

Naqvi was replying to questions in Rajya Sabha posed by Indian Union Muslim League 's Abdul Wahab who asked whether it is a fact that Muslims are finding it hard to get a place to stay for rent particularly in urban parts of the country and whether issues of discrimination in renting houses particularly in cities has come to the notice of government.

Wahab sought to know whether government is considering to bring any law to stop such discrimination to minorities as their constitutional rights are being violated?

In a written response, Naqvi said, "No sir, the government has enacted National Commission for Minorities Act to constitute a National Commission for Minorities and to provide for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto."

The minister said, "In pursuance of mandate, the NCM had considered two complaints regarding denial of housing in 2015 and the same were disposed of after calling reports from concerned authorities."

Political heavyweights in both Jammu, Kashmir regions hit by seat redrawing

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

APNI Party president Altaf Bukhari, fomer National Conference minister Peer Mohammad Hussain and People's Conference MLA Abdul Rahim Rather are among those leaders who have to scout for new alternative seats after the Delimitation Commission proposed massive changes in J&K Assembly segments.

In its second draft report, the Delimitation Commission proposed removal of 22 existing Assembly seats and creation of 29 new seats by redrawing boundaries of the existing and dissolved seats.

Bukhari and National Conference provincial president Nasir Aslam Wani, who used to contest from Amira Kadal, will have to find an alternative seat. The Amira Kadal constituency was among four constituencies in Srinagar proposed to be removed.

Similarly, Peoples Conference leader Basharat Bukhari and Apni Party leader Shoaib Lone will probably shift from Sangrama in Baramulla district to newly created Kunzer constituency.

With the proposed removal of Shangus seat in Kulgam, Congress' Gulzar Ahmad Wani, National Conference's Peer Mohammad Hussain and Peoples Conference's Peerzada Mansoor Ahmad will have to look for fresh pastures.

Senior Congress leader and former minister Peerzada Mohammad Sayeed and PC leader Abdul Rahim Rather, who contested from Kokernag, are also affected due to the proposal of the Commission.

As for Jammu region, BJP vice-president Sham Lal Sharma will have to search for a new seat as Akhnoor is now a SC constituency. Sham Lal Choudhary of BJP, Rajinder Singh Chib of Congress and Taranjit Singh Tony of JKNC are caught without seat as Suchetgarh is proposed to be erased out.

In Reasi, the career of political heavy weight and Apni Party leader Aijaz Ahmad Khan is at stake with the removal of Gool-Arnas constituency, which is bifurcated into Shri Mata Vaishno Devi and Mahore constituencies.

Similarly, BJP's Muslim face Abdul Ghani Kohli is left as Kalakote constituency in Rajouri has been split and merged into Darhal and Sunderbani-Kalakote. Former J&K chief minister Ghulam Nabi Azad's aide GM Saroori's Inderwal seat in Kishtwar has ceased to exist and two new seats proposed in its place.

2 Tripura CM-baiter BJP MLAs quit, 3 more in line

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Guwahati

BJP MLAs Sudip Roy Barman and Ashis Kumar Saha in Tripura on Monday resigned from the assembly as well as the party after a reported fallout with Chief Minister Biplab Kumar Deb.

There was more trouble in store for Deb as three more BJP MLAs — Diba Chandra Hrangkhawl, Burba Mohan Tripura and Atul Debbarma — had camped in Delhi along with the two outgoing MLAs.

BJP sources said the resignation of the trio, if it may happen, was just a matter of time. The sources also said that the BJP would lose another five MLAs by March.

Earlier in the day, Barman and Saha submitted their resignation letters to the Assembly Speaker and BJP state president. Another rebel MLA, Ashis Das, had quit the party last year and joined the Trinamool Congress. He was disqualified under the Anti-Defection Law.

Speculations are rife in Tripura that the duo would meet Congress leaders, including Rahul Gandhi, and that they will join the party. Incidentally, Barman had began his career with the Congress.

Barman, who is a former minister, slammed Deb, describing him an "autocratic". He said he and Saha quit the saffron party as they were unable to work for the masses.

"The BJP government has failed miserably. It has unleashed a reign of terror and people are in distress," Barman told reporters prior to leaving for Delhi along with Saha.

The BJP said the departure of the duo would not cause any constitutional crisis in the state. Party state spokesman Nabendu Bhattacharjee said, "It was expected. They were openly criticising the CM and other leaders. Their resignation is not relevant for the BJP."

Serum Institute gets regulator nod to test Omicron vax

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

DRUGS Controller General of India (DCGI) has given the nod to Serum Institute of India (SII)'s proposal to manufacture vaccine against Omicron for examination, test, and analysis, officials said Monday.

Officials said the drug regulator has permitted Pune-based SII to "manufacture SARS-CoV-2 rS Protein (COVID-19) recombinant spike protein nanoparticle vaccine (Omicron variant) for examination, test, and analysis."

This will be done under the provisions of New Drugs and Clinical Trials Rules, 2019, to manufacture the test batches, the order said.

Officials said Prakash Kumar Singh, Director, Government and Regulatory Affairs at SII, had put in an application to the DCGI on January 6, saying that the company, in collaboration with Novavax Inc, is working on developing a vaccine against Omicron.

The SII has obtained permission and license to manufacture SARS-CoV-2rS drug substances for examination, test, and analysis. The company said the Omicron variant has been reported in more than 60 countries and has become a cause for concern globally.

The company said they are "relentlessly working on the development of SARS-CoV-2 rS Protein (COVID-19) Recombinant Spike Nanoparticle Vaccine (Omicron variant)."

Honeymoon over for TMC and Kishor in Bengal?

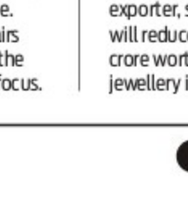
EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kolkata

TRINAMOOL Congress in West Bengal has initiated discussions to terminate its agreement with poll strategist Prashant Kishor and his advocacy group I-PAC following chaos among a section of party local leaders for being denied ticket in the upcoming municipal elections.

The relationship between the ruling party and the election strategist, hired by the TMC in 2019 following party's debacle in the Lok Sabha polls, turned sour after the candidates list for the civic elections was out on Friday. When party leader Partha Chatterjee was announcing the list, another candidate list was uploaded in the party's social media platforms, which is said to be monitored by I-PAC since 2021 – without Mamata Banerjee's approval.

"The party has been discussing steps to terminate the agreement with I-PAC," said a TMC leader.

The party rubbished and disapproved the list on social media platform saying there was no signature of authorised leaders. Agitations across the state broke out after many found their names in the list on the social media but missing from the list announced by Chatterjee which were sent to party districts presidents.



"We finalised the candidate list based on the names recommended by our MLAs as well as I-PAC. Many names recommended by Kishor's team were axed from the final list approved by the party supremo. We were surprised to see the list on social media platforms which was not approved by the CM," said the TMC leader.

Uploading of the disapproved list resulted in embarrassment for Mamata, said a source in TMC. "The act was a handiwork of Kishor's team which monitors our party's social media platforms. I-PAC denied that they had uploaded the list. But we know what happened," said the source.

The TMC had started disapproving the suggestions offered by Kishor and his team in the Kolkata Municipal Corporation (KMC) elections. Another party leader said, "His team recommended several new faces replacing our sitting councillors in the KMC polls which were turned down. We told him the TMC understands Bengal better than them and Mamata Banerjee decided to keep faith on her old soldiers in the civic polls," said the leader.

Central budget fillip to Rajasthan jewellery business

The Union Budget has come as a gift to the gem traders of Rajasthan due to the reduced customs duty on cut and polished diamonds and coloured gemstones from 7.5% to 5%. Also, the duty on Panna (emerald) has been reduced from 10% to 5%. Moreover, Rajasthan will earn ₹500 crore after customs duty on colour gemstones is reduced. About 5 lakh people are employed in the gem-jewellery sector in the desert state. Kushal Dhadda, Jaipur's famous diamond jewellery exporter, said that due to the import duty on cut and polished diamonds the costs will reduce, and export of gem jewellery will increase. Rajasthan exports ₹15,000 crore worth of gems and jewellery. This apart, a new duty of 20% on imitation jewellery imports is expected to boost export of imitation jewellery from India.

Leaders meet across world to defuse Ukraine impasse

French President Macron holds talks in Moscow as German Chancellor Olaf Scholz reaches Washington to coordinate policies

French President Emmanuel Macron (right) arrives for a meeting with his Russian counterpart in Moscow on Monday | AFP

MOSCOW

INTERNATIONAL efforts to defuse the standoff over Ukraine intensified Monday, with French President Emmanuel Macron holding talks in Moscow and German Chancellor Olaf Scholz in Washington to coordinate policies as fears of a Russian invasion mounted.

The buildup of an estimated 100,000 Russian troops near Ukraine has fueled Western worries of a possible offensive. White House national security adviser Jake Sullivan warned Sunday that Russia could invade Ukraine "any day," triggering a conflict that would come at an "enormous human cost."

Russia has denied any plans to attack its neighbor but demands that the U.S. and its allies bar Ukraine and other former Soviet nations from joining NATO, halt weapons deployments there and roll back NATO forces from Eastern Europe.

Putin's spokesman, Dmitry Peskov, described Macron's visit as "very important," but sought to temper expectations, saying "the situation is too complex to expect a decisive breakthrough after just one meeting."

He noted that "the atmosphere has remained tense," adding that the U.S. and its allies have continued to ignore Moscow's security demands.

Continuing the high-level diplomacy, Scholz is to meet with Biden later on Monday in Washington. Scholz is set to travel to Kyiv and Moscow on February 14-15.

Sullivan, the national security advisor, reiterated Sunday that the Russian Nord Stream 2 gas pipeline to Germany "will not move forward" if Russia attacks Ukraine.

Biden and Scholz are expected to address the pipeline during their their first face-to-face meeting since Scholz became the German chancellor. AP

Washington and NATO reject those demands.

Macron, who met in the Kremlin with Russian President Vladimir Putin before he is scheduled to head to Ukraine on Tuesday, spoke by phone Sunday with U.S. President Joe Biden to discuss "ongoing diplomatic and deterrence efforts," according to the White House.

Germany to boost troop deployment in Lithuania

Berlin: Germany will send up to 350 more soldiers to Lithuania to help bolster the NATO alliance's eastern flank, Defence Minister Christine Lambrecht said Monday, amid fears that Russia could invade Ukraine. "We are therefore strengthening our troop contribution on NATO's eastern flank and sending a clear sign of our resolve to our allies," Lambrecht said, adding that the soldiers will be deployed "within a few days". The message to allies is "you can rely on us," said the minister. Germany currently has 500 soldiers stationed as part of NATO forces in Lithuania. Lithuanian Defence Minister Arvydas Anusauskas called the additional troops "an important signal of attention to our region". "If (Russian President Vladimir) Putin thought he will divide the alliance by raising ultimatums, this decision shows us that NATO remains an organisation which is based on solidarity," he said. AFP

Long-held rights lawyer gets bail

Colombo: A Sri Lankan court on Monday granted bail to long-held prominent human rights lawyer and activist Hejaaz Hizbullah, who was arrested under a draconian law for suspected links to the 2019 Easter attacks which killed 270 people, including 11 Indians. Nine suicide bombers, belonging to local Islamist extremist group National Thawheed Jamaat linked to ISIS, carried out a series of blasts that tore through three Catholic churches and as many luxury hotels. Hizbullah was arrested by the security forces under the Prevention of Terrorism Act (PTA) on April 14, 2020 for his alleged involvement in the Easter suicide bombings. He was held without being charged. The Court of Appeal upheld his appeal after last week's refusal by another court. PTI

19 feared killed in avalanche on Pakistan border

Jalalabad: At least 19 people were killed by an avalanche on Monday while crossing a remote mountain pass from Afghanistan to Pakistan, a Taliban official said. Scores of Afghans cross illegally to Pakistan every day through the porous mountain border in search of jobs or to buy essential goods for trade. Najibullah Hassan Abdal, head of information for eastern Kunar province, said rescue workers were still searching at the scene of the avalanche. Illegal traffic across the Pakistan-Afghan border has soared since the Taliban returned to power in August. AFP

Junta denies releasing Australian

Yangon: Myanmar's junta has denied freeing an Australian academic detained for almost a year after Cambodia's leader on Monday took credit for arranging the release. Economist Sean Turnell was working as an advisor to Aung San Suu Kyi when he was detained shortly after the coup in February last year. He has been charged with violating Myanmar's official secrets law and faces a maximum penalty of 14 years in prison if found guilty. On Monday, Cambodian Prime Minister Hun Sen said Turnell had "been released" the previous day. Junta spokesman Zaw Min Tun denied that Turnell had been released, but acknowledged that Hun Sen had brought up the matter during his visit -- the first to Myanmar by any foreign leader since last year's coup. Iran nuke talks to resume in Vienna

BERLIN

TALKS to revive Iran's tattered 2015 nuclear deal with world powers are resuming on Tuesday after breaking off for a bit over a week for diplomats to return home for consultations. The European Union, which chairs the talks in Vienna, announced the resumption on Monday.

The United States pulled out of the Vienna accord in 2018 under then President Donald Trump and reimposed heavy sanctions on Iran.

Tehran has responded by increasing the purity and amounts of uranium it enriches and stockpiles, in breach of the accord. US President Joe Biden has signaled that he wants to rejoin the deal.

Britain, France, Germany, Russia and China are still parties to the accord with Iran and have been trying to salvage it. "Negotiations seem to be at the final stage which requires determination and energetic efforts from all participants to get to the destination point," Russia's delegate to the talks, Mikhail Ulyanov, said on Twitter.

Diplomats from the three European countries said when talks paused after a month on Jan. 28 that the negotiations were reaching the final stage, and that required political decisions. On Friday, US Secretary of State Antony Blinken signed several sanctions waivers related to Iran's civilian nuclear activities. The move reverses the Trump administration's decision to rescind them.

Iran's foreign minister on Saturday welcomed the sanctions relief but called it insufficient. AP

Call to probe Church child abuse cases

MADRID: Spanish PM Pedro Sanchez's Socialist party on Monday asked Parliament to set up an expert committee to investigate child sex abuse within the Catholic Church. Until now, there has never been an official investigation into alleged abuse by members of the clergy, either by the government in Madrid or by the Spanish church itself. The committee -- made up of "experts, representatives of victims' associations, clergy and public officials" -- would compile "the most comprehensive" study of the issue, party spokesman Hector Gomez told reporters. Israeli police accused of using Pegasus to spy on Netanyahu's son

JERUSALEM

ISRAEL'S domestic spying scandal widened on Monday with Prime Minister Naftali Bennett vowing government action following new reports that police illegally used the Pegasus malware to hack phones of dozens of prominent figures.

The latest bombshell from business daily Calcalist alleged that Pegasus was used against a son of former premier Benjamin Netanyahu, activists, senior government officials, businessmen and others.

Calcalist had previously alleged that the controversial malware, which can turn a phone into a pocket spying device, was used by police against leaders of an anti-Netanyahu protest movement.

Hours after Monday's report emerged, Bennett promised that his government "won't leave this without a response. "Things allegedly happened here that are very serious," he said in a statement that also credited Pegasus as "an important tool in the fight against terrorism and severe crime".

"But they were not intended to be used in phishing campaigns targeting the Israeli public or officials — which is why we need to understand exactly what happened." As Bennett pledged action, Minister for Public Security Omer Barlev said he would ask the justice ministry to authorise a government commission of inquiry. Barlev said that, if approved, the probe would be led by a retired judge who would question anyone necessary in the political, legal and security system to uncover "violations of civil rights and privacy".

Pegasus is a malware product made by the Israeli firm NSO at the centre of a months-long international scandal following revelations that it was used by governments worldwide to spy on activists, politicians, journalists and even heads of state.

Israel had come under fire for allowing the export of the invasive technology to states with poor human rights records, but the Calcalist reports have unleashed a domestic outrage. President Isaac Herzog suggested the credibility of key Israeli institutions was at stake. AFP

SUDANESE FORCES FIRE TEAR GAS AT DEMONSTRATORS

KHARTOUM

SUDANESE security forces fired tear gas on Monday at thousands of demonstrators calling for civilian rule and justice for protesters killed since last year's coup. The tear gas was fired as demonstrators were heading toward the presidential palace in Khartoum, in the latest rally against the October coup led by army chief Abdel Fattah al-Burhan.

Mass protests have been regular since the coup which derailed the country's rocky transition to civilian rule following the 2019 ouster of autocratic president Omar al-Bashir. At least 79 people have been killed on anti-coup demonstrations, according to an independent group of medics. Monday's protests took place despite heavy security presence in Khartoum and its neighbouring cities of Omdurman and Khartoum North.

Markets nosedive as FIIs on selling spree ahead of RBI's policy stance

FIIs sell equities worth ₹1,157 cr on Monday; financial, FMCG and infra stocks feel the heat

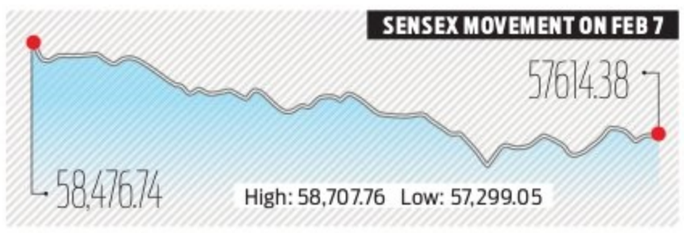
RAM SAHGAL @Mumbai

FUND-BASED selling largely in frontline and large cap stocks wiped out ₹2.95 lakh crore in investor wealth. Benchmark indices Nifty fell by 302.7 points to 17213.6 while the Sensex tanked by 1024 points to 57621.

FIIs sold a provisional ₹1,157 crore on Monday, taking their sales in February to ₹9,936 crore and in the fiscal year so far to ₹7,3231 crore, including Monday's provisional figure, or well over $9.5 bn.

DIIs sold a provisional ₹1,376 crore of shares.

Financial, FMCG and infra companies bore the brunt of selling with Sensex's losses led by the HDFC and Bajaj twins and Larsen & Toubro, which shed 3-4%.



The uncertainty in the market was underscored by fear gauge India Vix rising by 8.14% to 20.44.

"Today's losses were led by fund based selling," said Siddarth Bhamre, director, alternative investments and research, InCred Equities. "Frankly, we didn't see this coming and will have to rework our outlook."

The carnage was less in the midcaps and smallcaps with the Nifty Midcap 100 closing down 1% and the Nifty Smallcap 100 correcting 1.3%.

The FIIs underscored their bearish stance by shorting ₹1067 crore of index futures — Nifty and Bank Nifty .

"FIIs' selling of stocks and futures shows the texture of the market is weak, for now," said Hormuz Maloo, director, AFco Investments.

The major near term support for Nifty kicks in at 17000 while resistance is at 17300, followed by 17500.

Both the Sensex and the Nifty closed around 7.5% below their all time highs of October 19, 2021. Nifty record high is 18604.45 while Sensex all time high is 62245.43.

Poor demand for two-wheelers, chip crisis hit auto sales

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

RETAIL auto sales (vehicle registration) fell nearly 11% in January 2022 to 14,39,747 units, according to the data released by FADA (federation of auto dealers associations). The same had stood 16,12,130 units in January 2021.

This decline again came on the back of poor demand for two-wheelers. The high volume segment reported sales of 10,17,785 units last month, down 13% compared to January 2021 sales. When compared with pre-Covid month of Jan 2020, 2-wheeler sales fell over 20%.

Earlier this month, two-wheeler industry posted a 21% decline in wholesales on a YoY basis in January 2022 (as per data released by 6 major Original Equipment Manufacturers).

"January 2022 saw the two-wheeler industry post a 14% sequential growth in domestic wholesale volumes (as per data released by 6 major OEMs). However, the sales were 21% lower on a YoY basis, highlighting the adverse impact of price hikes, fuel inflation, and Omicron related concerns on consumer sentiments," said Rohan Kanwar Gupta, Vice President & Sector Head - Corporate Ratings, ICRA.

Coming to passenger vehicle (PV) industry, FADA reported a decline of 10% Y-o-Y in retail sales last month to 2,58,329 units. The fall came as manufacturers have been struggling to produce vehicles in full capacity due to global shortage of semiconductors.

> In spite of good demand, PV continues to face the brunt of semiconductor shortage, resulting in void of a healthy inventory.
> Vinkesh Gulati, President, FADA

FADA President Vinkesh Gulati said, "Auto retails weak performance of -18.4% compared to January '20 (a pre-Covid month) continues to show that India is yet to recover from the Covid effect, which gripped the world 2 years ago."

Overall auto sales stood 14,39,747 in January '22, down 11% Y-o-Y. Only commercial vehicle and three-wheelers witnessed uptick in demand last month. Gulati added, "In spite of good demand, PV continues to face the brunt of semi-conductor shortage resulting in void of a healthy inventory. Coming to two-wheeler category, the rural distress coupled with price rise and Omicron wave played a villain's role for this segment."

Amazon's plea vs CCI order in NCLAT on February 14

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT) will hear US e-commerce major Amazon's plea seeking a stay on the Competition Commission of India's order, which had suspended the 2019 approval for Amazon's deal to acquire a 49% stake in Future Coupons Pvt Ltd (FCPL), on 14th February.

Due to constraint of time, the tribunal will take up the matter on 14 February now, Justice MVenugopal said.

"The registry is directed to list on February 14 for hearing," said the NCLAT bench. The tribunal also directed to list the appeals by the Confederation of All India Traders (CAIT) and All India Consumer Product Distributors Federation on 14th February as well.

In December, 2021, the antitrust agency had put into "abeyance" its 2019 approval for Amazon's investment in Future Coupons (FCPL) and imposed a ₹202 crore fine on the US company as it found that Amazon had withheld certain information concerning Amazon's strategic interest in Future Retail.

On January 9, Amazon approached the NCLAT, challenging the CCI order.

The dispute between Future group and Amazon started when the e-commerce giant dragged the latter to arbitration at SIAC in October 2020. Amazon argued that FRL violated their contract by entering into a deal for the sale of its assets to Reliance Retail on a slump sale basis for ₹24,500 cr.

Demand from capital spending depts prompts revision of fisc deficit target

DIPAK MONDAL @New Delhi

THE government has unexpectedly revised the fiscal deficit target for 2021-22 upwards to 6.9% from the budgeted 6.8% after different ministries and departments expressed confidence in ramping up spending in the last quarter of the financial year. "Our revised fiscal deficit estimate largely reflects the capacity expressed by the spending departments," says a finance ministry official.

The official told TNIE that even if the ministry had doubts (on the likely spending in the last quarter of the financial year), they did not want to deny the departments a chance to ramp up spending by putting any cap in the budget. He admitted that in the current financial year, there is a need to ramp up spending.

"We have capital spending departments which are saying give us this much money and we will spend it. We may think they may not be able to spend so much money but if we apply our judgment and cut it (the allocation), they won't be able to even try spending the amount," says the official.

He says if the concerned departments fail to spend the money allocated in the revised budget, there might be some undershooting (of the fiscal deficit target). Many analysts and economists were of the view that given the spending trend so far in the current financial year, the government may not cross the 2021-22 fiscal deficit target as till December 2021, the Centre's fiscal deficit has reached only 50.4% of the budget target of ₹15 lakh crore.

Deficit at just 50% of target so far this year

Many analysts and economists were of the view that given the spending trend so far in the current financial year, the government may not cross the 2021-22 fiscal deficit target as till December 2021, the Centre's fiscal deficit has reached only 50.4% of the budget target of ₹15 lakh cr.

Total expenditure till Dec was ₹25.2 lakh cr, 72.4% of the budget target of ₹34.8 lakh cr. The expenditure target for this year has been revised upwards to ₹37.7 lakh cr, which means the government expects to spend ₹12.5 lakh cr in the last quarter of FY22. Of the ₹37.7 lakh crore, ₹6 lakh crore is earmarked for capital expenditure and ₹31.67 lakh crore for revenue expenditure.

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

OWING to better sales, Chennai-based TVS Motor Company on Monday reported a 9% rise in net profit during the third quarter of the current financial year (Q3FY22) to ₹288 crore as against ₹266 crore during the same quarter last fiscal..

Reverse repo rate likely to see 25 bps hike: Experts

RAM SAHGAL @ Mumbai

THE RBI could raise the reverse repo rate — at which it borrows from banks — by 25 bps on February 10, feel Crisil and Bank Of Baroda chief economists, to rein in rising inflationary expectations amid a larger than expected government borrowing programme in FY23.

SBI group chief economist Soumya Kanti Ghosh also believes the time is "appropriate" for a 20 bps hike in reverse repo, but feels that could happen outside the MPC.

With crude hovering at $90 a barrel and the government's gross borrowing budgeted at ₹14.3 lakh crore in FY23 against $12 -13 lakh crore pencilled by the market , the RBI has a challenging task to rein in rising inflation expectation even as it nurtures the nascent economic recovery through the government's capex thrust.

While raising the reverse repo rate from 3.35%, it will keep the key policy repo rate — at which it lends to banks — unchanged at 4%, according to economists and analysts .

Under the variable reverse repo auctions it conducts to suck out surplus liquidity from the banking system, the cut off rate has already moved closer to the repo rate of 4%, indicating that the rates at which banks borrow from each other are also moving up.

While keeping the repo rate and the cash reserve ratio unchanged, a hike in the reverse repo rate will signal that the policy normalisation process has begun.

"RBI is expected to change its position on growth and put emphasis on government borrowing and inflation as the main challenges going ahead," said Madan Sabnavis, chief economist , Bank of Baroda.

Meesho announces permanent work from everywhere, annual 'workation'

SAMIKSHA GOEL @New Delhi

INTERNET commerce company Meesho on Monday announced permanent work from anywhere, annual workations in places like Goa, Shimla, and satellite offices as part of its 'Boundaryless Workplace Model'.

By decentralising the workplace, Meesho is giving its employees the power to choose to work from home, office or any location of their choice, the company said in a statement.

Meesho said it will also set up satellite offices at locations with higher talent density, based on employee demand. "While Meesho will be headquartered in Bangalore, the company will look to set up satellite offices across the country based on talent demand and density."

To support working parents, Meesho will sponsor day care facilities for employees with children below 6 years of age. "This can also be availed during official travels to Meesho's head office in Bangalore," it said, adding the latest initiative furthers the company's efforts to reimagine conventional workplace dynamics.

Another interesting feature of the 'Boundaryless Workplace Model' is company sponsored annual 'workations' in places like Goa, Shimla, and Manali, which the company says, will foster team bonding and collaboration.

Ashish Kumar Singh, Chief Human Resources Officer, Meesho said, "We have studied multiple future of work models to arrive at this novel boundaryless approach. In the future, this will also give talent across the globe an opportunity to build for Bharat with Meesho."

Reliance to sell gas from CBM block at $14/unit

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

MUKESH Ambani-led-Reliance Industry Ltd is seeking a minimum of $14 for selling natural gas being produced from coal seams in a block in Madhya Pradesh.

The company in its notice inviting offer said it sought bids from users for the sale of 0.65 million standard cubic meters per day of gas from its coal-bed methane (CBM) block SP-(West)-CBM-2001/1 for a one-year period.

"A bidder shall be required to quote the variable denoted as 'V' in USD per million British thermal unit terms as a positive number pursuant to the gas price formula" of "14% x dated Brent + V," the NIO reads.

The company has kept the starting ticker for 'V' at $1 per mmBtu, which means bidders will have to quote at least $1 plus 14% of dated Brent crude oil to buy the CBM gas. Currently, Brent crude oil is trading above $92.5 per barrel and at this price, the floor rate for Reliance gas comes to $13 per mmBtu. Adding 'V' of $1, the minimum price comes to $14 per mmBtu. The government dictated price for gas produced by state-owned firms such as ONGC is $2.90 per mmBtu.

Senegal win maiden AFCON title

YAOUNDE: Sadio Mane made up for missing from the spot in normal time to score the decisive penalty as Senegal overcame Mohamed Salah's Egypt 4-2 in a shoot-out to win their first Africa Cup of Nations title after Sunday's final finished goalless at the end of extra time. After two previous final defeats, Senegal are Cup of Nations winners at last, while Egypt missed on a record-extending eighth crown.

Making a return after a long gap, Washington shows his effectiveness in PP & middle-overs

GOMESH S @Chennai

IN March 2021, Washington Sundar was at the top of the world. An unlikely hero in the historic series victory in Australia, followed by a dominant performance in the home Test series against England had shot his credentials through the roof. So much so that the then skipper Virat Kohli came out and said that Washington will be their first-choice spinner in T20Is going forward. "Washington has been doing really well for us, so you can't have two players of the same discipline playing in one squad," Kohli had said.

Washington played in T20Is against England, the first-leg of IPL, was a part of the contingent that travelled for the World Test Championship final. When it looked like Washington could play a role in the five Tests against England, things took a U-turn. A finger injury, sustained during the tour match where he played for County XI, ruled the off-spinner out of the series. Things got worse as he had to be out of action for weeks, missing the second-leg of IPL and the T20 World Cup.

When Washington returned to action for Tamil Nadu in the Vijay Hazare Trophy, both him and the team management were keen not to overbowl him. The 22-year-old was trying out different grips in the nets to avoid the injury in the bowling finger. "I kept inquiring about his bowling group and trying to protect his workload because he is coming back after a period of time. We didn't want to strain his finger," said Tamil Nadu head coach R Venkataramana. Applauding Washington's trust in the process and work ethic, he added, "He has the hunger to improve. I know if he gets on the field he'll definitely do well."

India's Washington Sundar trains at the Narendra Modi Stadium on Monday | AFP

After a successful Vijay Hazare, 16 wickets in eight matches, he returned to the India side for South Africa ODIs, but this time, he was struck by Covid. As he watched India lose the Tests and ODIs, Washington wanted to focus on things that he could control. And that is exactly what he did on his India comeback in the first ODI against West Indies on Sunday. Handed the ball in the first power play, the off-spinner picked up from where he left against England at the same venue eleven months ago. He choked the run rate and sent back two top order bats, setting up the game for the middle-overs.

Speaking about his time away from the team, "Yes, there will always be challenges... but what matters is how I push myself, keep getting better at the aspects that I want to and keep improving myself as a cricketer. I've tried to focus on it and doing that has kept me in good stead," he said after taking three wickets for just 30 runs.

Despite the disappointment of missing the 2021 edition, Washington has an exciting road ahead with a T20 and ODI World Cups in next 18 months., especially with the team management trying to figure out their spin combinations.

Players wear Covid face masks during hockey tie

AFP @ Beijing

RUSSIAN and Canadian women ice hockey players wore medical masks on Monday for their Beijing Winter Games match after Covid results failed to arrive in time, in a bizarre pandemic-inspired chapter to the Games. Canada ran out 6-1 winners, but only after a delay of one hour when the Russians found they had no opponents to play. "We were just waiting for (Russia's PCR) results to come back and once they came back we were comfortable," said Natalie Spooner.

"Our coaches and medical staff were not going to put us in a situation where we would not feel safe. This is probably a cool story in the long run. We can say we were at the Covid Olympics and we even wore a mask in a game."

The Olympics in the Chinese capital are taking place in a Covid-secure "closed loop" bubble where everyone must wear a mask at all times — except, usually, when they are competing. Everyone in the bubble must also have a Covid test each day.

"Pursuant to discussions between the two teams, they both agreed that the match would start with both sides wearing masks," the International Olympic Committee said in a statement to AFP. The Russian players took their masks off in the third period. "The results came in and they were negative and they said they were going to take their masks off," said Spooner.

"We figured we had them (the masks) on for two periods so why not keep being extra safe for one period." The Russian players said they had done nothing wrong and that they had their daily Covid test at their normal time of 8:00am.

India women set to face New Zealand in T20I

On Wednesday, when the Indian women meet New Zealand for the only T20I in Queenstown, the focus will be on getting acclimatised to the conditions and having quality game-time going into ODIs as they have six games to try and figure out their team combinations for World Cup.

Shuai emerges in Olympics

BEIJING: Nothing to see here, move on. That was the message that Chinese tennis star Peng Shuai delivered on Monday in a controlled interview in Beijing that touched on sexual assault allegations she made against a former high-ranking member of China's ruling Communist Party. Her answers — delivered in front of a Chinese Olympic official — left unanswered questions about her well-being and what exactly happened. Large parts of interview, conducted in a Beijing hotel and organized through China's Olympic committee with the IOC's help, focused on Peng's playing career. AP

No scope for errors in shrunken Ranji format

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

IT is going to be a unique Ranji season when the premier domestic competition kickstarts across nine venues from February 17. It is probably for the first time that the four-day event has been divided into two phases — league stage before the IPL and knockouts after. More importantly, there is a change in the format with just four teams in each elite group and the winner from these will reach the knockout stage. And, the lowest-ranked team among them will meet the Plate topper in the quarterfinal.

As a result, there is no scope for errors for top teams like Tamil Nadu, Mumbai, Saurashtra among others. One bad game, and their road to the knockout stages might come to an end. Likewise Karnataka, who might have been pitted in a relatively easier group comprising Railways, Jammu & Kashmir, and Pondicherry, cannot take things for granted. Which is why, Karnataka head coach Yere Goud is treating all matches as knockouts too.

"It is important for how we prepare and play this tournament. We can't have one bad session. The grouping is such that only one team qualifies for the knockouts. We will be treating all the group games like knockouts. If we want to win the Ranji Trophy this time, then it's about winning six games," said Goud.

Fewer East Asia events hurting Indians

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

INDIAN tennis players have a special connection with East Asian countries, including China, Japan and others. Their success at the ATP Challenger circuit in the region makes one sit up and take notice. Here are some numbers to paint a clear picture; Yuki Bhambri has won five Challengers, and all of them have come in India and East Asia. Similarly, Prajnesh Gunneswaran has clinched two, one in India and the other in China. Divij Sharan's tally of 16 wins comprises nine in India and East Asia alone.

However, strict Covid-19 restrictions and the situation in the region acted as a bummer with ATP withdrawing the then scheduled events. One look at the last five years throws up some interesting stats and the decline of tournaments in East Asia have hit Indians hard. In 2017, out of the 155 Challengers, 24 were in East Asia, 2018 (159, 22) and 2019 (158, 21). The scenes changed considerably with the coronavirus outbreak two years ago. In 2020, there were two events in Thailand while it came down to zero last year. In contrast, Challengers were a part of the calendar in many European nations and America.

"European countries don't have these restrictions. China is shut off... Thailand shut down. You do not see the UK, Italy having such lockdowns. Look at how countries have also reacted — that is also one of the main concerns as you cannot travel. Four massive countries in the Asian region are shut. I don't think sport is a preference there. It is more how to save lives — everybody has had a different approach and for Asia that is the approach," said Yuki, who will partner Sharan in the men's doubles at the Bengaluru Open.

As a result, Indian players were forced to look at the competition in other tennis continents. But travelling to a different region, away from your comfort zone, has its own set of challenges, including the finances involved.

And just when one thought the situation would get better, the new variant — Omicron — has come as a serious blow. Prajnesh wants normalcy to return and play in Asia. "The last two years have been tough. I have been trying to see more openings in Asia, but unfortunately due to Omicron, once again, we have had a setback and maybe lost another three to four months. Hopefully, this is the last wave and we can go back to normalcy. But we have accepted that this is the way things are as of now and play wherever events are and make the most of it," said Prajnesh.

Saketh knocked out

Saketh Myneni in action | VINOD KUMAR T

India's Saketh Myneni suffered a first-round exit with the player going down 6-1, 6-1 to Italy's Gian Marco Moroni in the Bengaluru Open here on Monday. Meanwhile, Arjun Kadhe stormed into the main round with a 6-3, 6-4 win over Austrian Alexander Erler.

U.S., RUSSIA SECRETLY LEAKING METHANE

Using satellite data, European scientists have discovered that oil and gas facilities in six countries, including Russia and the US, have secretly been releasing huge plumes of methane into the atmosphere, speeding up the process of global warming

9 mn tonnes

of methane emitted yearly by the six countries. Scientists fear the real amount could be much higher as the satellite is only able to routinely monitor the facilities

1 mn tonnes

Turkmenistan was the biggest emitter, releasing more than 1 million tonnes of methane a year between 2019 and 2020. Russia, the US, and Iran followed

We knew about individual gas blow-outs before, but this work shows the true methane footprint of oil and gas operations around the planet

Riley Duren, researcher

A GLOBAL WARMING CATALYST

Methane, a key component in natural gas, is a greenhouse gas. It is at least 80 times more effective than carbon dioxide in trapping the sun's heat in the earth's atmosphere and causing global warming

25 TONNES OF METHANE/HOUR

- Just six countries account for 12% of the world's methane emissions, analysis of data sent by European satellite Sentinel 5 between 2019 and 2020 have revealed
- The "ultra emitters" are Turkmenistan, Russia, the United States, Iran, Kazakhstan, and Algeria — all six are major oil producers. The analysis showed they were emitting more than 25 tonnes of methane an hour

1,800+
large bursts of methane between 2019 and 2020

TECHNOLOGY IMPROVES TRACKING

Scientists are increasingly using satellites with advanced monitoring technologies to track methane emissions worldwide. A team of researchers from Europe analysed thousands of images sent daily by the European Space Agency's satellite mission Sentinel-5. TROPOspheric Monitoring Instrument onboard the satellite can detect methane in any 12-square-mile block of the atmosphere on a daily basis

COSTLY NEGLIGENCE

The most significant finding is that oil and gas companies are routinely releasing copious amounts of methane into the air. While some releases were due to accidents, more often oil companies simply let out gas from pipelines before carrying out maintenance works. This is despite the availability of equipment that allows gas to be captured instead of being releasing into the atmosphere

Australia set to welcome tourists from February 21

Two-year-old travel curb, one of world's strictest, to be finally lifted

COVID

SYDNEY: Australia will reopen its borders to tourists from February 21, Prime Minister Scott Morrison announced on Monday, ending some of the world's most stringent and longest-running travel restrictions.

"It's almost two years since we took the decision to close the borders to Australia," Morrison said, announcing borders will reopen to all visa holders "on the 21st of February of this year".

"If you're double vaccinated, we look forward to welcoming you back to Australia," he said. Australia's ports and airports slammed shut to tourists in March 2020 with the aim of protecting the island continent against the surging global pandemic.

Since then, Australians have mostly been barred from leaving and only a handful of visitors have been granted exemptions to enter.

The rules have stranded nationals overseas, split families, hammered the country's multi-billion-dollar tourist industry and prompted often bitter debates about Australia's openness to the rest of the world.

"Bout time," said Melbourne resident Marshall McDonald. "It's exciting. It almost feels like the end of a period of hermit kingdom-ness ending."

Every month of "Fortress Australia" policies has cost businesses an estimated US$2.6 billion, according to the Australian Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

"Our borders will have been closed to international tourists for 704 days," the chamber said in a statement.

"This decision will allow our flailing tourism sector to recover, saving businesses and saving livelihoods."

In recent months, rules have been gradually relaxed for Australians, long-term residents and students.

The latest decision will see almost all remaining caps lifted. It comes after the country's long-standing "Covid-zero" policy was abandoned, vaccination rates rose and the once stellar track-and-trace system collapsed under a wave of Omicron cases.

Only a handful of countries remain closed to tourists — among them Japan, China, New Zealand and several Pacific Island nations.

For Australia's travel and tourism sector – which struggled as visitor numbers fell almost 98 percent compared to pre-pandemic levels —the news brought elation.

"We're very excited about being able to reopen," said Tony Walker, managing director of the Quicksilver Group, which operates cruises, diving and resorts across the Great Barrier Reef. "The last couple of years have been incredibly difficult for us," he told AFP, urging people overseas to "come visit".

Germany weighs easing restrictions

COVID

BERLIN: The German government has begun working on plans to relax coronavirus restrictions after the peak in new cases has passed, likely by the end of February.

Unlike some of its European neighbours, Germany still has many pandemic restrictions in place that exclude unvaccinated people from restaurants, public venues and some stores.

"Perspectives for opening are being developed," government spokeswoman Christiane Hoffmann told reporters Monday in Berlin. She said the measures would be discussed at a meeting of federal and state officials on Feb. 16, but would only take effect when authorities can be sure that Germany's health system won't be overwhelmed.

"According to experts, that could be by mid-to-end February," she said.

Pharmacists in Germany will begin administering vaccinations from Tuesday | AP

Germany has seen a sharp spike in newly confirmed cases in recent weeks due to the omicron variant.

Pharmacists in the country are scheduled to begin offering vaccinations Tuesday, after parliament changed the rules so that they, dentists and vets could also administer the shoots.

About 74.4?% of the German population is fully vaccinated against Covid-19, while 54.3% have additionally had a booster shot.

Meanwhile, in China, a city of 3.5 million near the border with Vietnam was on lockdown on Monday after more than 70 coronavirus cases were discovered there over the past three days.

China, the only major world economy still sticking to a staunch zero-Covid policy, is on high alert for any outbreaks as it hosts the Beijing Winter Olympics.

Local officials in the city of Baise in the southern Guangxi region announced on Sunday that no one would be allowed to leave the city, while residents of some districts would be confined to their homes.

"Citywide traffic controls will be implemented," vice-mayor Gu Junyan told a press briefing. "In principle, vehicles and people cannot enter or leave the city... with personnel control strictly enforced and no unnecessary movement of people."

Experts to visit Fukushima to assess water release plan

ENVIRONMENT

TOKYO: A team of experts from the International Atomic Energy Agency will visit Japan's wrecked Fukushima nuclear power plant next week to review plans to begin releasing more than a million tons of treated radioactive water into the sea, a mission the government hopes will assure people of the plans' safety. The team of about 15 experts will meet with government and utility officials during their mission last from February 14-18, which includes a visit to the Fukushima Daiichi plant, industry ministry officials said on Monday.

The government and Tokyo Electric Power Company Holdings announced plans last year to begin gradually releasing the still-contaminated water in spring 2023 after further treatment and dilution. The water is being stored in about 1,000 tanks at the plant which need to be removed to allow for the wrecked plant's decades-long decommissioning. The tanks are expected to reach their capacity of 1.37 million tons later this year.

The plan has been fiercely opposed by fishermen, local residents and Japan's neighbors, including China and South Korea.

Most coastal areas not intact

ENVIRONMENT

Only 15 per cent of coastal areas around the world remain intact due to pressures caused by human activity, according to a study which highlights the need for urgent coastal rehabilitation and conservation on a global scale. An International team led by researchers at the University of Queensland (UQ) in Australia mapped the impact of human-caused pressures on coastal regions to identify those that are already highly degraded, and those that remain intact. The findings, published in the journal Conservation Biology, provide valuable insights into the widespread impacts of human activity on Earth's precious coastal ecosystems. "Coastal regions contain high levels of biodiversity and are relied upon by millions of people for food and storm protection," said Brooke Williams, from the University of Queensland.

NEPAL TO REOPEN SCHOOLS AS COVID CASES FALL

COVID

KATHMANDU: Nepal's government on Monday announced it would ease strict pandemic measures, with plans to reopen schools and sports venues and slowly return city life to normal, as Covid-19 cases began to decline. The Nepalese government imposed tough restrictions last month as virus cases broke records, fuelled by the omicron variant. Schools were shut, religious festivals banned, and restaurants were limited to serving small numbers of customers.

The Kathmandu District Administration said in a statement that it would lift limits on road traffic from Monday, which had restricted vehicles to alternating days for odd or even license plates.

The announcement added that schools and colleges would be allowed to resume in-person teaching from next week. Schools ordered to close since last month have been demanding the government reopen educational institutions as the number of Covid-19 cases began to decline.Teachers say online education was limited to only a small part of the population living in the urban areas of the country while a majority of students were being deprived of their chance to learn. Theaters, gyms, and other public venues closed since last month will be allowed to open.

Show of style

Kirti Kulhari's easy-yet-smart look or Shefali Shah's regal look... costume designer Radhika Mehra gives a breakdown on what it took to style the characters in OTT series, Human

MONIKA MONALISA

HOW does a job which involves shopping for yourself as well as others, sound? While it may appear fun, celebrity costume stylist Radhika Mehra – Bollywood actor Kajol's go-to stylist – will tell you it's hard work. Her latest work for the show Human, a medical drama on Disney + Hotstar, has been making waves across the industry for both its content and costumes.

Mehra, a frequent visitor to the city and cousin of Grammy award-winning musician Ricky Kej, says a lot of research went into bringing these characters to life. "Each character was styled specifically based on their origin. Shefali's character – Dr Gauri Nath – belongs to the cream of society in Bhopal, so she can afford designer sarees," says Mehra, adding that all the jewellery on the show – the emerald and the uncut diamonds – are all real. She managed to get some of the jewellery from Hanut Singh in New Delhi who has international clients. "His pendants are quite striking, so you don't see them in Indian cinema. She also has a very 'Begum of Bhopal' vibe. Everything is quite subdued but she wears the right jewellery with it," explains Mehra, adding that the whole look was screaming 'power'.

However, actor Kirti Kulhari's character – Dr Saira Sabharwal, a cardiologist with 11 years of experience – is a junior doctor compared to Gauri Nath, and had to be styled accordingly. "She is still making her way up, she is someone who has travelled the world. I gave her smart, well-cut trousers. They had an international look with Indian prints. I approached some homegrown designers like Punit Balana and KoAi, to make a shirt for Kirti. So it was their prints with my cuts," says 35-year-old Mehra, adding, "There were a lot of flowy kurtas with jeans and converse. Since she is a doctor, I also thought comfort was foremost."

Kirti Kulhari

Shefali Shah

In one of the scenes, Kulhari's character is seen wearing pink sweatshirts, which might appear unusual as a doctor's outfit. "I don't know where these assumptions come from. I also took elements of what I do at home. All of the scrubs and uniforms of the medical staff were also designed by me," says Mehra, who has been in the industry for 15 years. "My own wardrobe is filled with flared jeans, sneakers and oversized shirts," she adds with a laugh.

AFTER HOURS

BEING PATIENT

This cancer and robotic surgeon, who moonlights as a chess player, speaks to CE about the similarity between his passion and profession

MONIKA MONALISA

AN important skill for a surgeon is being calm without panicking during an emergency. These are the same skills that chess – as a competitive sport – demands too. And Dr Somashekhar SP, an oncologist and robotic surgeon at Manipal Hospitals, has mastered both of these skills.

Having been playing international chess for a while now, Somashekhar says a key aspect of both is patience. "A surgeon is someone who needs to have a lion's heart with a lady's delicate finger. During operations, there are many ups and downs, but you need to be able to keep your mind calm and have self-control. Chess actually teaches that," says Somashekhar, who started playing the mind game when he was seven years old. But he took it only seriously in medical college when he won the Karnataka championship twice.

The HoD of surgical oncology was also selected by the government for training in Russia. "But I could not take it up because I was also doing my Fellowship of the Royal Colleges of Surgeons (FRCS) in the UK and the training was for a period of six months," says the surgeon, adding that because of family issues, he could not take up chess as a profession. owing to family constraints. However, once he completed his FRCS, he resumed practice for tournaments. "I devote three months to FIDE, the international chess federation. Now, again in March, there is a FIDE tournament. I travel across the world to play chess," he adds.

Being a surgeon is quite hectic. He does around 150 surgeries and sees about 1,000 patients a month, but manages to squeeze in time for chess. "Every night between 11pm and 3 am, I play online chess with international players on the net. I read a lot of books on the subject," says Somashekhar, adding that his daughters also play the game. His all-time favourite players are Anatoly Karpov and Garry Kasparov who he finds contrasting in nature. "Karpov is very controlled and has good defense, while Karpov is erratic and emotional but has more wins with his sudden decisions that are not always rational," says Somashekhar, adding that he grew up studying both these legends but relates more with Karpov. And of course, he loves the calm demeanour of Viswanathan Anand. "He used to come to Bengaluru to play matches at Chinnaswamy Stadium. He is far ahead of me but I have played a couple of friendly matches with him," says the doctor, who loved the Netflix series The Queen's Gambit, a drama series based on a chess prodigy.

FIT BIT

PARIVRTTA ARDHA PADMASANA

(EXTENDED LEG HALF LOTUS TWIST POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'parivrtta' means to turn around, 'ardha' means half, 'padma' means lotus, and 'asana' means pose. It gives tremendous stretch and rotation to the chest and spine. The pose strengthens the entire back, spine, and core. It is very useful for relieving tension in the upper, middle, and lower back. It frees the rib cage, chest, and shoulders and increases the ankle, hip, knee flexibility. This pose improves flexibility of the hip, knee and ankle joints, and strengthens the muscles of the back and spine, which are essential for seated meditation. While Manipura (solar plexus) helps with the digestive system, muscles, pancreas and adrenals, Svadhisthana (navel) represents desire, pleasure, sexuality, procreation and creativity.

STEPS

- First, sit with your legs stretched out in front of you.
- You can keep straightening your right leg out onto the floor and retain it out of practice.
- Bend your left knee and cross your left ankle all the way across your right thigh in Padmasana (Lotus Pose). Flex your left ankle.
- If the sole is facing upward, it may cause stress on your left ankle or knee. So, place your ankle on the floor and press your left foot into the inner part of your right thigh.
- Rotate your torso toward the left leg.
- Place your right hand on the outside portion of the left thigh. Twist from the spine.
- Now, you can reach around your back with your left hand and grab your left foot.
- Take 5 to 10 deep breaths, allowing your body to oscillate in and out of the pose slightly as you exhale and inhale.
- Return to the center. Stretch your legs out on the floor in front of you and sit for a few breaths.
- Repeat on your other side.

BENEFITS

- It stretches the chest and spine; and strengthens the core, spine, and back.
- It helps to stimulate the abdominal organs and improves the functions of the digestive system and various organs.
- Gives the navel and abdominal organs.
- It helps to reduce anxiety and stress.
- It is more helpful to relieve fatigue.

LIMITATIONS

- Avoid this pose, if you have problems in your kneecap, shoulders, neck, back, hips or ribs injury, herniated disc, migraine, menstruation, pregnant women, high blood pressure, or low blood pressure.

I was reading a description from Russian author Boris Pasternak's famed Doctor Zhivago (1957) It goes like this: "In the waiting room, ladies in a picturesque group surrounded a table with magazines. They stood, sat, or half reclined in the poses they saw in the pictures and, studying the models, discussed styles." It paints a picture of bourgeois women obsessed with popular culture. I showed it to my daughter and she exclaimed, "People back then were not much different than those today!!"

Yes. We love our news channels and the chatter they offer. Over years, television journalism in Karnataka has contributed towards blurring the lines between the personal and the public. People have immersed themselves in the massive biddings of the media as well as the vibrant communication machinery of the social media platforms. Due to the pandemic scare, urban Kannadigas seem to have given in to the onslaught of visual information available to quench their inquisitiveness. We prefer scanning headlines, watching movies on OTT and web surfing. Passive social life has dimmed our desire to take part in cultural events. People, most of them devoted to celebrity news nowadays, are obsessed with people who have considerable mileage in fields such as movies, television, music, and sports. Unbound flow of information that an average Kannadiga is being fed has brought down the attention span.

Thanks to these developments, the language and content related to celebrities has undergone a massive change. British novelist J G Ballard has described this development as: "A kind of banalization of celebrity has occurred: we are now offered an instant, ready-to-mix fame as nutritious as packet soup." Clickbait headlines, pictures, sleazy language and 'reveal-it-all' stuff grab more eyeballs. While people a couple of decades ago used to throng movie shoots, musical events or games to watch their idol, now these people are just a click away on Instagram or Twitter. Celebrities are under immense pressure as well, with people watching every move they make. Living under a lens is never easy when cancel culture is trending. One hashtag can ruin someone's career.

Makes one wonder about the kind of stress under which these celebrities must be operating. I was going through several interviews of Korean boyband BTS that recently gained international fame and its members choose their words carefully when asked about the downside of it all. A few of them are known to have crumbled several times. While people like to know every intimate detail about their idols, the same can put them in harm's way.

What if we meet our idol and they turn out to be much different than what we had imagined them to be? I have been disappointed with several favourite authors of mine when unsavoury truths over their personal lives were revealed. I have wondered if I should stop reading them. "In this post-truth era, everything sounds like a conspiracy and you often tend to believe masked lies. Hence, consume what you truly enjoy and don't worry too much," advises my pragmatic sister.

Vidyarthi, who recently travelled to Bengaluru from Sakleshpur, has added a new feather to his cap as a vlogger and is out there to discover the 'spirit of life'.

One glance at the comments' section of his vlog videos, and you will often find his viewers noting that he is racing ahead of new-age vloggers. However, Vidyarthi believes that he is also learning a lot from young vloggers because he is new to this space. Thanks to the lockdown due to the pandemic, Vidyarthi has been looking at everyday life through a new lens. And this has led to his interest in vlogging since November last year. "I realised life is happening en route. I want to tell the story of my life, the people I meet, and the moments I share with them. There is so much ordinariness around that we tend to ignore. When I take a pause, I discover the extraordinary in the ordinary. Those are the stories that I want to tell. At 56, I enjoy being restless," says Vidyarthi, who has acted in 11 languages and is also a motivational speaker.

In Bengaluru, Vidyarthi also broke bread with Kripal Ammana, who he often 'looked up to' as a vlogger. What also united them was their hunger to savour some of Bengaluru's traditional 'ragi mudde'. "Having the entire spread of the ragi ball meal was an absolute delight. The fun part is when you share what you love with others. Technology has allowed me to express myself in ways I never thought I could," says Vidyarthi, adding, "Earlier, I used to look at travel as work, but then I realised that I work so that I can travel. I now find reasons to travel. Every four or five days I love to wake up to a new place."

From baking pizzas to brewing coffee for the first time and even trying to make a dosae, his vlogging journey has made him push many boundaries. From Palakkad to Guntur and Chennai, Vidyarthi's love for local tourism has come with many takeaways. "I push myself to try out something new. Some of them are funny and some rewarding. Cooking is one of those. Whether it is flipping the dosae or mastering the art of making coffee.. it has been so much fun. I also discovered the three-layered coffee in Mangaluru and some unknown travel spots in Sakleshpur," says Vidyarthi, who, during his visit to Chennai learnt that Chicken 65 was first invented at an eatery there.

Vidyarthi has also recently started a podcast series which is based on horror stories. Titled Kahaani Khatarnaak Goi, the stories are narrated by Vidyarthi himself and delves into the dark and horrific side of things. The podcast started a fortnight ago on YouTube and is out with two episodes, "I hate scary stories because I get scared very easily. But I felt people like such stories. The idea is to make people shut their eyes, plug in their earphones and excite them with some horror tales," says Vidyarthi, who is juggling work and vlogging right now, and is also working on a podcast themed on alternate career options.

Tips on juggling work and your musical journey

TUNING IN
Bindu & Ambi Subramaniam

(The authors run SaPa - the Subramaniam Academy of Performing Arts)

IF you are an adult with a full-time job, there are many benefits to learning some form of music. Learning music exercises new parts of your brain, encouraging creativity and making you more focused and productive at work. It is also a great way to unwind.

Still, it can be a challenge to keep at your music learning journey while also navigating the day-to-day routine of working. Like any other skill, learning music takes discipline, structure, and hard work. So, here are some ways in which you can add meaning and structure to your journey of music education while maintaining a day job:

Ask yourself why you're doing this

Is music a hobby you want to explore? Or do you want to pursue it professionally one day? Remember, there is no "right" way to engage with music. Be clear about the reason why you want to learn music, and you will be able to take the next steps more purposefully.

Set realistic goals and priorities

Set big-picture goals, and find ways to break them into smaller targets that you can review every three months. If you're a songwriter, set a big-picture goal of writing a full song. Then, break it down into smaller tasks, like finishing a verse by the end of a week. Goals keep you on your toes, and give you a sense of direction.

Set aside time to learn

Depending on your work schedule, try to fit in at least a few hours of learning and practice each week. If you have fixed hours, keep some evenings or weekends aside for music. If your work hours aren't always fixed, take each week as it comes. Most importantly, set a learning and practice schedule that you can stick to – not one that sounds aspirational.

Finally, and most importantly, be kind to yourself while you undertake this journey. Some days might feel less productive than others. Some practice sessions might be frustrating. Some workdays might be longer and require you to skip your lesson or practice. Find ways to make up the time spent learning, and don't be too hard on yourself. After all, we are all trying to do our best.

GLASS SLIPPERS AND PROCRUSTEAN RULES

YOU probably have heard versions of these two stories, or seen movie versions of them: In the first story, our champion is seeking a relationship, and goes around town, taking a glass slipper to see which person is an exact fit for that sorry, declaring that person to be the partner for our champion. In that fairytale, before the magical fit happens, the story has lots of wishful people breaking their feet or stretching it out to try and fit into the mythical slipper. Nobody questions why the slipper did not continue to be taken around, in case there were other perfect fits, and of course, it is weird the slipper never breaks!

The second story is a lot older. It is the Greek myth of Procrustes who had one bed for anyone visiting, and if the person was too long for that one bed, their legs would get chopped off till they fit in it, and if the visitor just happened to be too short for a snug fit, they would be stretched out till they fit perfectly in it. Whichever way it was, the person would die in a lot of pain.

There are versions of the Procrustes myth and the glass slipper story in so many different cultures. Whether it is the glass slipper or some Procrustean rule, both really are a metaphor for forcefully trying to fit into someone's idea of what is perfect, or violently making someone conform to one's idea of what is the perfect fit. Maybe there's a perfect person who fits that slipper or the bed, maybe not – but the search for that perfect pertain is riddled with risk, certainly for those really wishing to fit, and at least for Procrustes, a deadly risk, having gotten killed by Theseus while trying the same trick with that demigod.

When we think of these stories in the context of love and relationships, the parallel is to consider if we are taking an idea of what is the perfect relationship and trying to forcefully fit someone into it, or if we are so enamored by somebody or caught up in their charms, that we try to force ourselves to fit into what they wish. If this dreamy person comes along but only wants someone who will keep house for them in their remote corner of the world, would we quit working, cut off friends, move continents and so on, just to fit into this version of the glass slipper? Or, on the other hand, would we be Procrustes, demanding, for example, that the one for us must definitely give up all of their previous identity, completely change and that we would stretch and break them to make them into what we want, regardless of what pain it might cause them?

LOVEOLOGY

(The author is a counsellor with InnerSight)

Often, love and relationships feel torturous because knowingly or unknowingly, or just because of tradition or custom, we might cause or accept such violence as a necessary aspect of life. Some might even romanticise these as a sacrifice, or major acts of love.

It doesn't have to be anything like that. We can love ourselves better and find better love for ourselves.)

'LOVE MOCKTAIL 2, A PERFECT ENTRY FOR ME IN SANDALWOOD'

...says actor Rachel David, who also shares her experience of working under Krishna's direction, and how there was a lot of back-end work done for this film

A SHARADHAA

MALAYALAM actor Rachel David, who is making her Kannada debut, feels Krishna's Love Mocktail sequel would be her perfect entry in Sandalwood. "Part 1 of Love Mocktail was a huge success, and there has been a lot of expectation about part 2. The characters in Love Mocktail 2 are very relatable because it is told from the girl's perspective. It traces the story of a girl from her teenage to adulthood, and has a mature outlook about love," says an excited Rachel, whose debut Kannada film releases on February 11.

A still from the film Love Mocktail 2

Rachel says that she had watched Love Mocktail during the lockdown, and she was surprised getting the lead role in the sequel. "I did not have any connection in the Kannada industry. So, getting a call from the team was surprising. It has been a wonderful experience since then working with the director and actor Krishna. He is a filmmaker, who has a lot of clarity, and this in turn became easy for actors like us. Secondly, Krishna is very disciplined, and he knows to get the work done. We did have a lot of workshops and rehearsals, and it enabled me to go on to the sets with a lot of confidence. Equally, Milana Nagaraj was also of great support. Together, we worked as a team, and the output was brought out well because there was a lot of back-end work," says Rachel.

Talking about working in a different language, Rachel says that the process was similar to the Malayalam industry. "There has been a great fan following for Love Mocktail, and there is a larger section of the audience, who are looking forward to watching the sequel. Professionally for me, it's been a two-year journey, and I got to work with a great team. We are finally showing the product to the audience this week. Krishna Sir has done his best, which I am confident that it will be received well," she signs off.
